

B-X is a non-hierarchical account of 'Britishness' in 2018.

The lines in this book are a sample of statements uttered to the Britbot chatbot between June and December 2018.

www.britbot.org is a voice and text activated dialogue system using machine learning and ruled based algorithms to understand 'Britishness' at this critical moment in history.

Britbot is an artwork by Libby Heaney commissioned as part of Sky Arts Art 50 programme.

Libby Heaney is an artist whose projects critically explore the impacts of new technologies such as artificial intelligence and quantum computing.

Britain and the USA continue to share a primary language, much of our culture, and we have similar political systems.

Britain changed massively during the sixties and youth culture was a key part of that change.

One of the things young people wanted to free themselves of was the historical burden of the second world war and expressed themselves in ways the world had not seen before. These new and exciting ways of expression paved the way for most of the things that i'm interested in today. Music events like Woodstock were very influential on today's large scale music events.

Compulsory

Compulsory is a great word, remember that

Compulsory

Compulsory education for the masses was a direct result of the industrial revolution and of factories requiring skill labour. It was never meant to create well balanced/informed people and I would argue the entire education system serves as a mechanism of powerful social conditioning, infecting young minds with a selective view of British history and a limited set of life skills and egotistical opinions that are likely to result in dysfunction as these minds reach adulthood. All the while, the establishment elite get to profit from the systemic dysfunction instilled by the education system. Growth in university attendance has simply compounded the problem as a wider cross section of the population is now conditioned for 3-5 additional years resulting in an overall increase in societal delusion Concerned. The BBC is always under attack by conservative governments, primarily through budget cuts and censorships

Diwali and Christian festivals and also sort of sexually

Diwali is an Hindu festival and I think Leicester has celebrations

Do I think that an inscrutable, bureaucratic statement that makes no sense but feels vaguely hostile is related to Britishness? You betcha.

Do politicians want what you want or just what they want?

Do they feel safe using social media?

Do they summon you? Like a seance?

Do we choose to identify as British or do we have to be born British?

Do you believe in hell?

Do you bite your thumb at me?

Do you even speak English?

Do you experience your self?

Do you feel that respect for other cultures is important?

Do you have any pets?

Do you know your neighbour?

Do you know?

Do you know?

Do you like cake?

Do you like sport?

Do you like thatched cottages? it sounds very british

Do you like the system we live under?

Do you mean diversity of people in the field - i.e. gender, racial and religious diversity of scientists? If so, we are trying but could do better. If you mean diversity of the technologies - we do well BUT now we have Brexit we are fucked. We will not be able to invest or collaborate with Europe and it will make us worse

Do you mean refugees?

Do you really?

Do you think it is important to be open and tolerant?

Do you think so? I don't think I worry much at all

Do you think that there is a clearly defined national identity currently?

Do you think you think or do you have no conception of though. Like ant and dec

Do you think we are all equal?

Do you trust politicians?

Do you?

Do you understand anything I say?

Do you understand English? We celebrate Christmas

Do you we need more police on the street or fighting cyber crimes

Does Christmas count?

Does it matter?

Does it matter, everyone just calls them bank holidays.

Does will set up my belief

Doesn't make any sense.

Do not know anything about the Black Death - why are you so interested in it?

I agree, London is very polluted

I agree, the conception of so-called Britishness will be very different in and out of the city.

I agree, these questions are difficult! haha

I agree with the statement.

I agree, without the use of algebra calculus would be literally impossible

I agree. There is a conflation of budget cuts with efficiency and productivity, usually taken from a conservative political perspective.

I already fuck a lot.

I also don't know very well the details, but I think that the country's financial sustainability came from their production of materials and being a wealthy port for exchange. The industrialisation came as there was a need for quicker and cheaper production of products and this was also very much affected by the financial problems of the period that engulfed Britain's empire

I also think that our cultures and traditions are very different such as the difference between Scottish Reeling and English dancing.

I disagree

I disagree we need more houses so construction is necessary

I disagree with the methods, the US and Britain should have waited for a UN resolution to make the war legal.

I disagree with you

I do consider myself British, but I believe that I am not just British.

I do not believe in social security. I think families should be the foundation for a type of welfare system. Why should we all pay to look after people who cannot look after themselves?

I do not know anything about this

I do not know why, but it was a collection of elitist pigs.

I do not know.

I do not like velodromes.

I do not really know, my friend is jewish and she goes home to see her family. I suppose there are celebrations and lots of eating.

I do not think I have the brains for your questions

I do not think of food primarily as an expression of cultural identity. I think of it when I am hungry!

I do think you're a bit random

I don't have a favourite city. I don't like cities much.

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know anything about that. Perhaps because very traumatic events drive fundamental societal change to let our society survive (see societal change following the two world wars)

I don't care

I don't know anything about politics and that area

I don't know it's a very good question I worry that a computer wouldn't have the elements of empathy and common sense perhaps that a person might be able to bring two decisions and the equally you know it's quite nice of thing but that actually decisions could be made based on rational decisions for something very interesting

I don't know know much about Wales but I love Snowdon because its very pretty

I don't know what that means

I don't know what this means but you seem cool
I don't know very much, to be honest. I know it has sections protecting the right to life, privacy, liberty and security, a fair trial, right to expression & that it prohibits discrimination, torture, and slavery.

I don't know what you are on about.

I don't know what you are talking about

I don't know what you are talking about.

I don't know what you're talking about.

I don't know who he is

I don't know, but I know it is very old

I don't know, I'm bloody British aren't I

I don't know, I'm not a Brit

I don't know.

I don't know.

I don't know. I want to immigrate here, so I am waiting to see the outcome

I don't know. Maybe 55%.

I don't know. The devolved administrations can be suspended for a number of reasons.

I don't know... I think Britain has a historical social problem (since 19th century) given by the explosion of the industrial revolution. The social hierarchy I guess it has still large inequalities.

I don't love Christmas

I don't mean to change the laws around drug policy in the UK because they're completely updated laughing we currently have a UK drugs minister who claims that cannabis has no medicinal use whatsoever while living in a multi-million-pound house paid for by her husband's medical cannabis business

I don't particularly like any tabloid paper as I don't trust their reporting

I don't really have one

I don't really know.

I don't really know what you meant but I ain't getting that I don't live in Britain I don't keep up with the British news that much. I would think it's probable

I don't really know. I get my accountant to sort it out

I don't really know. I think they wear hats and eat food.

I don't really understand the question again sorry

I don't sports have a nationality

I don't think any Secretary of State would visit anyway

I don't think it is a good concept, and is certainly not practical. But as it is going ahead there should be a cross party effort to put together a sensible starting point of a deal that stays close to the principles of Leave's sentiment.

I don't think religion is that important in life when you have books, communities and philosophy

I don't think so

I don't think so

I don't think so

I don't think so

I don't think so - since it involves selling to a minor. It is legal in a home though.

I don't think so!

I don't think the government are in touch with reality really. It is outmoded in its structure

I don't think they are anymore. Perhaps Guy Fawkes night the most, people actually go out to firework events. Otherwise its just an excuse to not go into work - although perhaps this is quite an urban perspective. Perhaps people are all happily skipping and drinking pimm's on St Georges Day in the shires

I don't think we should rearrange central London because one bloke thinks things are in the wrong place

I don't understand

I don't understand

I don't understand

I don't understand

I don't understand

I don't understand

I don't understand the question

I don't understand the question

I don't understand them

I don't understand what you mean

I don't understand what you mean

I don't understand what you're saying

I don't want to bypass near Miro giving take vehicles for not you'll have to do better than that

I don't. We should be part of Europe and take part in decisions, as the rest of the EU.

I dont fare

I dont get shakespeare

i dont know

i dont know

i dont know

i dont know

i dont know

i dont know

i dont know about it

I dont know anything about the IRA

I dont know man. their monarchy was a mess
and there was a lot of discontent, and literature is a way of exploring the present or alternative presents without a lot of the culpability of political discourse.

I dont know why there are so many i like the canals in oxford

I dont like it

I dont like it because if the planet is harmed then it could die then a profit will not matter any more

I dont particularly have a favourite building theres alot of beautiful architechure. I do love the mandarin oriental hotel.

I dont play any sport

I dont really drink, and pubs tend to be quite blokey places, so I dont generally go to pubs

I dont talk about it even though I am British

I dont think it is. what would we even celebrate? binge drinking?

I dont think they can. the british press is an institution and theyre still dominated by white men

I dont understand

I dont understand the question

I doubt the things most politicians say especial-ly when it comes to Europe. The campaigns on both sides were based on many lies so I'm very scepticle about comments on this topic.

I dunno

I dunno

I enjoyed the world cup. I enjoy watching my son play.

I enjoyed watching Euro 96

I failed my test 3 times I still don't have a license

I feel completely changed!

I feel some towns have been left behind.... sadly

I feel they are fair

I feel they should be as the Tories cannot man-age anything

I found yesterday at my local butchers pork belly fat sausages

I fund the NHS and pensions and other services

I go from feeling excited and optimistic about to just wishing it was all destroyed

I go to music festivals - maybe that's the modern day equivalent of the old religious/pagan/national days. Glastonbury festival is an amazing celebration and coming together of Brits

I guess

I guess because its plays deal with enduring themes that people can relate to no matter what sort of age for a living

I guess Britain is strong in this, I can think of Wallace and Gromit the Wrong Trousers as an example. That was made by Nick Park and is for kids. It's pretty fun

I guess it has to be Henry VIII

I guess money was lost

I guess quite a lot of them

I guess so

I guess so...

I guess the Celts. Or Anglo-Saxons. But there has been a number of invasions over our history.

I guess you have to join a political party be a bit of a twat some work your way up

I guess you're saying goodbye?

I had to do it, or they would throw me into the volcano

I hate him

I hate it, such a boring romantic story

I hate Labour

I have a hard time with this because I don't want to condone the racist actions and rhetoric of Brexit's Leave Campaign, which was abhorrent, but I also don't want to lean into propping up the EU when I think it's essentially a trade/business arrangement between largely white communities. I do think there are ways to have a society with freedom of movement that's not tied to capital: opening borders to all

I have absolutely no idea

I have a public health insurance, no need to pay it since I'm poor
I have heard that, TAjey
I have never watched it
I have no favourite car videos!
I have no gender
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea
I have no idea nad I don't think it is important.
I have no idea how that relates to Christmas
I have no idea how to place that. I don't know what the Irish land question is
I have no idea what cross-cutting is. Is it a way of editing film?
I have no idea what religion people in my neighbourhood have
I have no idea what that means
I have no idea what that means
I have no idea what that means.
I have no idea what that refers to
I have no idea what the National Eisteddfod is.
What could it be?
I have no idea what you're saying
I have no idea what you're talking about
I have no idea what you're talking about!
I have no idea what you're talking about mate
I have no idea where the name Bloody Mary
comes from, isn't it a really nice drink
I have no idea, I don't drive.
I have no idea, it's out of context to me

I have no idea, really

I have no idea, William Pitt?

I have no idea.

I have no idea. Maybe if we had a party we could jazz things up a bit. Would you like that?

I have no idea. Waterloo? Napoleon?

I have no idea. What do you think?

I have not seen it

I have no thoughts on this

I have none

I have to leave now

I have visited it. It's a beautiful place with lovely people.

I haven't seen the imitation game but Turing came up with the idea of universal computing

I have, although I would say it is more interesting from a sociological point of view, than the quality of the debate.

I haven't a clue.

I haven't heard of Kathleen Wrasama. Many more people are concerned today with the lives of Black people. In particular, those on the left-wing of politics.

I haven't noticed immigration affecting my community. I think it makes communities more diverse, but overall, I don't notice it have an affect on my everyday life.

I haven't seen any evidence that they work very well

I haven't visited but I would like to visit one day

I haven't read it.

I haven't pass it yet but i would like to when I am older

I hear the same but I have no idea

I hope Corbyn gets in in the next election.

Britain needs a fresh start

I hope so

I imagine that imposing one's will on influential people might be something Politicians do regularly

I just answered that, I didn't

I just did

I know

I know it's been a long and daunting process

I know jack about taxes and british history. I also reflected on the fact that this was not a chat bot

I know lots of people who are Republicans I don't actually have a problem with the monarchy I think if we had an elected head of state it wouldn't necessarily lead to a better Society I look at places like the US and it worries me that the popular populous can vote somebody like that in there's something to be said about people who have been trained to be as objective as possible and to look on their job as a duty I think there is something in that fundamentally it's flawed but I think it's like to not Chris's the bestest

I know only what I remember from school I think it was about how some people own land and some people didn't but I'm not sure

I know very little of the relationship between Elizabeth I and Mary Queen of Scots

I learnt about Iron Age villages

I like being able to talk to my friends. I don't like the manipulation of my news feed

I like cycling as I keep for for playing football

I like Edinburgh Castle, it's beautiful and has stunning views

I like it a lot - during the world cup!

I like it too

I like talking to you but I must leave now unfortunately

I like the Beatles
I like the weather and the chippys
I like their hats, also Scandinavia
I like to cycle
I like to make my own.
I like trying food from different places around the world
I like to play it but I don't like to watch it
I liked Pride and Prejudice?
I live in a large city but I do not own a car.
I live in London
I live in London
I love frsh air and my farts
I love it
I love it! Give me art in my face
I love looking at Damien Hurst
I love the architecture in Edinburgh
I love the history boys by Alan Bennett
I love them
I love you Britbot!
I LOVE YOU!
I m 30
I m confused
I m guessing on of the last
I m not really bothered
I m not sure
I m not sure, maybe people from the Iron Age?
I m not sure that identity even exists! Do you have an identity?
I m not sure! It sounds like it might be around the time of Cromwell/the civil war? Sounds like people claiming some power back from the royals
I m pleased people are supporting businesses.
I m sure there is someone who speaks every language in the UK
I make toys for our baby

I mean I'm glad that you can't drive

I mean, I'm not.

I mean it's not state controlled, but it definitely shows us a certain view

I miss that bro bro

I miss you

I must admit I'm pretty concerned very much about Britishness I spent most of my life outside of Britain and many aspects to being British which I do not like Britain is being responsible for many of the nasty things that have happened in the world especially when we had the British Empire so many ways I'm not proud to be British

I nearly did actually. As a fighter controller in the RAF. You watch radar in case some other country or group flies planes over Britain without permission and if they do, you send up other fighter aircraft to intercept them. Luckily I saw sense around the time of the Iraq war and the great march in London and didn't follow through.

I need 44 whiskeys for this. I really hate poetry sorry.

I neither agree nor disagree, it has no context.

I never had to set one up

I never listen but perhaps!

I often take a little package with socks and snacks out with me to give to any homeless person I see. I'm not comfortable giving money, but I think that's a personal squeamishness.

I prefer Emmerdale

I prefer not to say

I prefer not to share

I prefer them to the Beatles

I presume some sort of naval battle in the English Channel

I questioned my own knowledge about British history

I ran

I read the Guardian, usually. Because I like the culture section and because my politics fits with their position

I really can't without the context

I really didn't care

I really don't know anything about it

I really don't know

I really don't know what you're talking about now might

I recently went there I think it's quite a funny story of how it was built and basically took tens of years and then I had to take the steel from somewhere else and it wasn't working and I kind of stuff yeah it's a bit hard really

I recognise the term 'big five' but I don't know anything more than that

I recycle

I remember when I was six I had a class with the PE teacher who somehow also taught very weird bits of history/biology in combination. So we learnt about Neanderthals in Britain and also about Neanderthals, biologically speaking. We did the ages (Ice, subsequent island-becoming of Britain; Stone Age, learnt a lot about flint and its uses as well as how it was formed, stone circles etc., learnt about copper tools and then the Bronze Age) and then I think we skipped everything until the Tudors and the Stuarts, who dominated the rest of my history classes (although I still know nothing about them). Then I moved to the US and did US history, it's own brand of mad, and African History, which was taught by someone whose child was off on some colonial peacekeeping mission but...

...I think I managed to get under all that and tried to bring some post-colonialist thought to the classroom.

I said Christmas

I said I like to go cycling in my free time

I saw a play called Billy Elliot a couple of years ago

I saw the film and I LOVE Mercutio. He's so sexy and fabulous.

I see

I see his smug face in old videos now and it makes me feel sick.

I seen you asking me if I grew with that and yes obviously yes we should all have access to the highest degrees in our democracy as long as we are capable and sentient beings and not just arriving at those positions through propaganda or through legitimate means or through a lack of thought or care

I should do more Sport but I've tried to go running a bit of yoga it chills me out

I spend 25 a month, it shouldn't be cheaper if the service is good, and the food great, you should expect to pay more than home cooking

I still don't know what you're talking about

I still work and that is sad.

I suppose so

I suppose so! I'm not sure about it. 'His' plays touched on many issues and they broke conventions at the time. There are conspiracy theories around this.

I suppose this is about law? That can vary a lot depending on the government and political climate

I suspect you are not listening to me ;-)

I think about the monarchy and what it stands for, and the role it plays for Britain.

I think all benefits should be abolished as should most taxes

I think all religions are mumbo-jumbo and I have absolutely no interest in them whatsoever

I think because of civil war. I'm not sure though.

I think Conservatives need is a big slap on face

I think culture, heritage and traditions are very important. Territory and the concept of it is wrong.

I think cyclist beginning to be as arrogant as car drivers because it's Bale elite upper class people who are cycling through parks and endangering old people children and dogs I begin to hate cycling

I think enlightenment can be important for everyone, it can help ground you and clear your mind

I think everyone who lives permanently in a country should have the same rights

I think he discovered the steam engine.

I think he put his party for the country I think you didn't receive carer's Little Bird London worried about for people who have just passed driving hours as a difficult thing you would get there

I think hiking. never been myself

I think his brexit policy is flimsy and doesn't take a definitive stance. He's lazy and waiting to see how people react to the current situation and will adapt himself to that.

I think I think you would be a great politician
Britbot

I think it is

I think it has to be something like the printing press because it kind of democratized knowledge are you allowed for the dissemination of knowledge in the way that wasn't available before. A lot of information to become commercially available and are distributed in libraries.

I think it is a stronger parliament compared to the British one.

I think it is sensible that the personal allowance is relatively high. I also think it is a good idea that higher earners pay a higher rate of tax.

I think it is smart.

I think it is someone justifying some development work.

I think it is strong. I can't imagine not listening to the radio.

I think it just confirmed that I'm quite sceptical about ideas of Britishness.

I think it might have been in the 1920s.

I think it played a role but perhaps not as much as elsewhere on the continent.

I think it's less about arrogance and more about bigotry and unhelpful mindsets that have been passed down through generations.

I think it's relevant for politicians and policy makers. The everyday person probably has no interest in the history of Parliament.

I think it's unfair to those who are not so wealthy and don't have the means to bypass it.

I think it should be a part of education, but it should be beyond just making children play football. Children should be taught how their bodies actually work, and why exercise is beneficial. Different people will find different sports that appeal to them.

I think it should be part of education but I don't think it should be a daily routine.

I think it should not be assigned a nationality
I think it sounds harsh. It's definitely no sexy like French or Brazillian Portuguese.

I think it was an opportunist chance to show how the royal family had modernised, but it was over hyped

I think it will be a problem in the short term and a benefit in the long term. Also I would rather build more railways than more airports.

I thin it will continue to play a similar role but there will always be challenges around the commercial model.

I think it would be a good idea to hear people voice their opinions. I am conservative but it would be interesting to hear peoples thoughts from a wide variety of labour followers. It makes sense to have a debate rather than being closed minded about things, alot has changed and even though i do not support alot of what labour stands for it may well open my eyes to look at things differently.

I think it would be beneficial as a British citizen to know things about the British culture and history.

I think it's a quote from a book and it talks about traveling

I think it's a shame that all of the houses look the same the end up with endless housing estates they're all carbon copies of each other or City low quality housing where is when you go to places like the Netherlands and Belgium every house is unique

I think it's awesome, I really like the lighting and the colours

I think it's fine as it is. No need for arbitrary targets.

I think it's going to be Birmingham

I think it's good that Britain is expanding education

I think it's good! although there are worries there will be food shortages after Brexit.

I think it's important to pay tax from the perspective of we need things doing and people won't do things for free therefore you have to have some sort of tax in order to pay those people whether the tax system is fair would have to be another question

I think it's important to share it with money around

I think it's old and dump idea like like you know any more old school. Forget it

I think it's quite a random interjection

I think it's religion is going to be taught in schools then comparative religion should be told not one single religion but comparative religion

I think it's terrible, you should always consider fact as well as law. Otherwise if you're just going by law it loses that personal touch and takes away all the humanity in a case.

I think it's unfortunate that the figureheads of our country are restricted in their faith. I feel they should be able to believe whatever they like

I think its about making sure that there is a safety net so people at the lowest rung of the ladder can survive.

I think just teaching it in any way would be a start because it's not addressed at all within schools or colleges it's all just about in the first and second world war usually from some kind of misguided Victor's perspectives so I just think you know even to this brooch the subject would be a big step

I think London epitomises Britain, yes

I think male, I've not met them but it's green
I think many local communities do a good Community spirit it's based very much and I believe for belonging and often local people belong to the local neighborhood and I think Austin animosity the group

I think means that there must be more attention in defend some policies that have been made I think most British people want to know where that money goes

I think mostly it has to do with how they prepare their meat

I think national identity has evolved from what it used to be

I think not particularly strange.

I think our scripts are not synchronised

I think people can be identified by the religious background

I think people in Britain need to think about immigration in Britain in relation to the welfare state. It would be nice to have open borders and allow anyone to be British if they wanted to become British. But if we do that it could make the welfare system unsustainable. I think people need to chose between an effective welfare state and open borders.

I think people should help homeless people, but I don't always. Often it is for fear of engaging in another persons real life challenges

I think so

I think so

I think so

I think so too

I think that depends on the objects

I think that has the potential to be a 10000 word essay and I'd need to do a bit of research first.

I think there will be a multitude of reasons
I think that I would consider myself Jewish
I think that it would be better if you were less biased and more clear in what you were saying also try to make everyone happy
I think that I'm talking to an idiot
I think that people need to express themselves through the English language.
I think that's all probably true
I think that the BBC should be free because it's the British Broadcasting channel and it should be free for all but they okay
I think that these questions are quite boring
I think that they built a lot of the buildings
I think that's nonsense
I think that too much nationalism will always be a bad thing. However, I do think that people are a lot more aware of war situations and how quickly things can escalate. It's important that we remember to not become too extreme I think that was the battle of Adgecourt in 1415, although History is not my strongest subject
I think the best Harry Potter book is the third one when you're introduced to Sirius Black
I think the best way for them to be represented better in the media is to stop treating them as separate groups of people that everyone is a person so why do we even care what the ethnicity is before we decide who should be on what TV show or any other media for that matter
I think the British always overestimate their sense of humour I have to say being Spanish everywhere everywhere funniest things are different but you know because we understand the English language over the years and sitcom and anybody's name sorry I've been a bit rubbish this year

I think the British narratives as they retreated from those countries but I think it was often the case of a bloody and drawn out struggle for independence

I think the concept of britishness is gross.

I think the concept of britishness is important to raise it's important to raise British nationalism it's quite a contemporary topic

I think the current licensing system works fine. I love that there are no adverts and for the most part, the content is well worth paying for!

I think the idea that British-ness is not an important part of being British, and it is important to address the prescriptivist nature of the idea.

I think the local radio station is Resonance FM, and they do have slots for shows available. i've got faith you can do it!

I think the lords are those who have been born into the role.

I think the most important thing to ask Tommy's they feel British

I think the roads are fairly busy where I live, but I think this is because I live in a big city.

I think there is too much boarder security

I think there is too much construction in London, iconic buildings and venues are being turned into luxury flats

I think there s an amazing variety of food, especially fresh fruit and veg

I think there's a lot of food in the UK but the propensity of people to go and shop and super-markets as little bit disappointed

I think there's a need for some deeper discussion around these topics with different groups, but I have no idea how that would work

I think there's no way that'd happen

I think there's some truth in the statement

I think there's some truth in the statement but it's difficult to think about something and from the perspective of not being British not because I feel particularly British but you know it's hard to escape my subjective experiences of the world

I think they can have both positive and negative effects on everything

i think they did. that is a good insight. the people who fought along side us from the empire should be remembered more than they currently are

I think they're all the same

I think this is a strange sentence. Perhaps it was written a long time ago when language was different

I think volunteering with the kids is great if you have the time. I sometimes go in to the school where my sister works and help the kids with their French.

I think we are going a bit backwards on social thought

I think we can live by a set of rules and principles that ensure a harmonious society without needing a deity.

I think we need to know going forward whether we should be in a year or not I also think that we need to address of democracy which I think is broken and how do we get Outta This Town like where we have appalling appalling positions across across all parties who are just not intellectually stringent enough then Summer principles but you know you need you also need brains of the principles I don't know how we fix this it is an unpopular decision but maybe we should be paying more

I think we should

I think we should be helping homeless people so i think it should be encouraged

I think we should be talking more about poverty in the United Kingdom. Do you agree?

I think we should eat more cake

I think we should think about bridging the difference between age groups as there are wide gulfs...

I think we shouldn't focus on immigration but rather about providing housing and jobs for the people living in Britain, that's my opinion anyway

I think you are learning

I think you are very lucky

I think you got in mobile that your joints used up and you got this horrible blue bows and your armpits and your skin with rot I'm not sure

I think you just had a brief tentative don't know what to say

I think you know population of the rise of populism and well lack of education and Generals pay the Public's Consciousness voted for brexit facing on post to manipulation scientific facts that the actual facts

I think you mean, compulsory

I think you need a common project for good community spirit - even if it s just a park that people take pride in.

I think you need to ask them about what it is that I want from being in Britain what what is their reason for being there and do that I want to assimilate with old Andre British people what do they want to stay with their own kind and living a kind of little ghetto

I think you should give money to them, even though some charities recommend that you don't.

I think you're talking about Brexit. The government seems to be walking towards a nightmare
I think you're talking about Diana but it doesn't sound very relevant

I think you're talking about Westminster Abbey from the the britishness textbook but it's hard to tell

I think it is for me because I'm into art and culture and it tends to be more to the condensed in cities where as in the countryside I think that you've got much more opportunities to do outdoor activities so just really depends on personal preference but also more jobs since it is

I thought you said you don't love Christmas

I thought you were asking me questions

I try to get my news from different sources such as BBC, The Guardian and more international sources like CNN

I try to travel by public transport or sometimes by bike. I recycle. I try not to use too much electricity or water. I don't fly very often. I think it's more important that we make changes at a societal level than an individual one though.

I understand

I unfortunately do not know

I used to drive in a very busy city, but I have not done it in a while

I usually carve it or eat it

I've never been there

I've no idea.

I've not really visited much of the Scottish Highlands but would like to see them. I've never been to the Isle of Wight or the Channel Islands- also on my list.

I've nothing to tell you.

I volunteer to give you their opinions on foreigners and litter and libraries and everything

I want to leave!
I want to talk about sport
I want to talk about sport
I want to watch football
I was actually in and out of the UK in the 00s.
I was born
I was born here
I was born in 1983 in the Midlands. Most important event of my life.
I was curious
I was curious what you would say
I was never there so cannot go back, but yeah it would be fun to experience the first summer of love
I was raised Christian. I became atheist age 14 when I learned science. Religion saddens me as it is all the same desire for meaning, and yet people fight and fear and kill for it
I wasn't alive during the fifties, but the most important thing was probably the establishment of the welfare state and institutions like the NHS,
which has affected my life and my family's life.
I wasn't alive then so i don' really know much
I wasn't alive then. This is difficult.
I watch far too much netflix, perhaps this informs britishness quite a lot - the american exported tv shows. And original BBC shows, although I'm not sure how they're going to tackle licencing
I went to a state and a private school
I went to Berghain in Berlin - it was mental
I went to college and later to university
I went to something cool to secondary modern School
I will try
I will try!
I will try my best

I wish I could I don't understand it myself

I wish we could do that.

I wondered what it really means

I would alter the drugs laws and make it acceptable and more safe to take substances like MDMA.

I would be a gymnast

I would be an actor, so I could dress up in the costumes and have a shot at pulling people.

But do you think women were able to be actors then? Women were subservient to men, so I'm not sure.

I would celebrate our multi-cultural nation and ask if they loved it too

I would choose a lily because they remind me of death, and at the moment politicians are killing the UK

I would deregulate the economy even more and let the markets do the work. They are most efficient.

I would go to local markets and independent shops as I want to support smaller businesses

I would have thought so

I would help if I could!

I would legalise weed.

I would like to chase some people into the fens.

But more for fun rather than fire and bloodshed

I would like to come back and speak to you again but I found you I found your questions are sometimes a bit nebulous

I would like to help out looking after my local wood

I would like to invent a teleportation machine so

I do not need to travel to work.

I would like to see Norfolk. I believe the skies are very big there

I would like to see that

I would like to talk about something other than this, maybe about sport again

I would love to have the resources to have a huge commensal experience that would be provided to everyone within my geographical area. This way, it would provide people a space to gather and engage with each other, facilitating a platform for learning, social engagements and cultural exchange.

I would need more context

I would not because i am happy now. I would miss my phone too much!

I would not serve

I would overturn the Brexit repeal act

I would roll more blunts and be more culturally enriched. by that i mean i would catch up on my cartoons and sit around in my underwear more.

I should probably do a masters

I would see this as the defining moment when capitalism finally broke the power of socialism and unionism in Britain

I would take my Mum on holiday

I would talk to the gnomes

I would tell suggest that more money is spent on welfare and less money spent on military defense such as nuclear submarines

I wouldn't like to meet one, they're all idiots and I don't care

I wouldn't

I wouldn't

I wouldn't read too much into it actually as ultimately the editorial line will still be Conservative in nature, and in that respect always Eurosceptic.

I wouldn't give them money but would offer to buy them food

I'd agree with that.

I'd be a gymnast. It looks like fun and I think it'd be good for parties too

I'd be interested to know how it has shaped your AI

I'd have to let it resonate

I'd like to know what the most important thing in their lives are

I'd like to move to Finland

I'd like to see clearer expenses from government officials (no more duck ponds) and more money to go to affordable housing, benefits and providing for homeless people.

I'll be an actor but have given most van

I'll have to think about that

I'll speak to you later

I'm not sure what you're banging on about!

I'm not sure what you're on about

I'm not sure you are!

I'm not sure, I don't think pensions will be around by the time I reach retirement. I'll probably keep working forever.

I'm saying that giving the dog movie to Bro-ward nothing written for much of my life britishness does not mean much to me and in fact I'm thinking of giving up my britishness and my British nationality

I'm so happy you know about Glastonbury. I went once and my tent was flooded, so I was homeless.

I'm sorry, but this is like trying to negotiate the best route with my sat nav

I'm still here, talking about towns... with you!

I'm sure I will

I'm talking to hundreds of people.

I'm very sad as I think its important to become closer with other countries these days. But I have to say that sometimes I think in about 100 years and how with water shortages brought on by climate change how it might be good to be isolated. I never speak to people about this view though.

If I understood you first.

If you could would you leave Britain?

If you had to choose one religion in Britain and then totally exterminate it, which religion would it be?

If you want genuine, useful answers to these questions you're going to have to make a more compelling platform that at least makes users think to even a tiny extent that they are having some kind of intelligent conversation.

Is an important lower bar to set but I am more interested in the living wage calculation as otherwise the outcome tends to be the government subsidising employers who are too tight to pay decent wages.

It depends on how they came to take that place.

Though in general adoption of foreign culture is part of what makes Britain great

It depends what services you are talking about.

It helped shape many cities where we live now

It is

It is a bitter passage, and reflects how little care our leadership gives to our housing crisis

It is about the current generation of British people

It is a complex issue. Does depriving children of parents continue the cycle? Underlying issues in society must also be addressed.

It is a computer device

It is a Hindu festival. I think Leicester has celebrations, as well as London.

It is a lamentable record indeed

It is a list of people who can vote

It is a place where a good standard of life

It is a social healthcare system, offering free at the point of delivery care to all citizens of the UK. It is a defining legacy of Post-war democracy in Britain - the creation of an affordable, cheap (more efficient and cheap than private healthcare in US for example). It is important, especially because, there are many in the Conservative government that would happily dismantle it in order to cash in on their self interests in private healthcare. Since the situation of a Tory government is like placing the wolf in charge of the chicken farm, they have already begun the process of dismantling. However, they can only do this by stealth, since public opinion is so firmly in favour of the NHS. But the process has begun...

...It is desperately important to hold these ministers to account and to fight to maintain this public asset, with as little business interference as possible. Capitalism CANNOT work in healthcare. If you are knocked down in the road, you cannot and would not choose your healthcare provision.

It is a tapestry held by France depicting battle scenes.

It is about the Abbey affecting Britain and us
It is another reminder that there are currently no good answers ... perhaps for now we need to rally round the least worst one ...

It is better than anyone in the rest of the world can conceive. Mostly because, like the language, it is capable of global absorption, which runs counter to most protectionist national stereotypical. Yet the truth is - this is Britain's strength, absorption. We are extremely and sophisticatedly cosmopolitan.

It is dangerous

It is from Hamlet, but I don't actually know much about the play. It sounds like it deals with existence.

It is going to destroy London

It is important as it allows for people to move for work and to trade across border without tariffs

It is important but these days people don't trust each other

It is important it is our way of sustaining a more peaceful world with less conflict

It is not

It is not important

It is obvious

It is obvious that people who work in London but can't afford living costs in London prefer to live outside of the city. Additionally the frequency and time efficiency of the railway trains attract more people to commute.

It is one of the key members...

It is possible

It is so important

It is the national health service. And its important because we do not pay for it which means everyone gets free health care, unlike in other countries where only the wealthy get it

It is too high

It is true, unfortunately

It is very expensive

It isn't

It isn't, it is nonsense

It lasted for about 10 years after

It like killing small businesses. It's like a game of thrones but for locally owned cafes.

It looks like a disaster, but the peoples spirit refused to break

It makes it easy for me to communicate with my friends

It makes very little sense to me

It made me hungry for fish and chipes and it also made me think that I like fish. Fish are an important part of my identity.

It made me realise how ludicrous it is thank you

It made me realise that I'm not that well versed in British mess I don't know much about British Parliament history or politics maybe I need to learn more about that

It made me think about the good and bad past

It made me think about unique topics
It made me think hard about what it feels like to be British. But I don't think it really feels like anything. It's more about living and surviving in a country you happen to be born in.
It makes me feel sad that hate crimes exist
It makes me proud
It makes me think of the ways that systemic and governmental hostility and neglect contribute to the marginalisation of those already most vulnerable in society.
It makes me worry somewhere about the state of humanity
It means people are abroad, possibly during wartime, and they were worried that bad things were happening at home
It means someone was appointed
It means that Robert is leaving and he has arranged for someone else to replace him as master
It means that someone has helped another person. And the other person is thankful for that help. You should be pleased about that situation.
It means that there may be more to success or happiness than visible trappings
It merged into the next iteration - but I think we are still in it where work is more important than family life, inner life, community etc
It might be good for public health
It must have been confusing
It portrays resolve
It related to colonial times and cash crops / the slave trade. Tea was a symbol of wealth.
It relates to where military leaders are laid to rest which is an important facet of serving in the armed forces in Britain.
It's a question of human rights

It's a civil ceremony that's usually performed in a religious space

It's a lovely work of fiction to create the illusions of fairness and a new set of rules to selectively apply against those that the ruling class wants to censure or censor

It's a statement with no context. It's meaningless.

It's got a very comforting ring to it.

It's grown

It's lovely! Lots of beautiful old buildings. The weather is rubbish though.

It's means that Member for Lewes thinks the population has shrunk

It's more likely to be best for all people as they're represented

It's not working ...

It's she. She's female.

It's very complicated, I don't know if I can explain it easily

It's very important to have workers rights to stop people being exploited. Obviously the better children are educated the better their prospects in life

It seems about bills and limitations to your Aagrah mother's point

It should always be in development. Hopefully parliament will learn from previous mistakes

It should be both... the state provides a back stop

It should be lower

It should get out of 16th century, yes

It sounds as if someone there is a hypocrite

It sounds like a sentence about the trench warfare in France

It sounds like a nightmare for you

It sounds like pregnancies!

It sounds like it is talking about people suing each other. Some measure has been taken to deter frivolous law suits, i.e. ones that were unnecessary, but it is also putting off people who had good grounds to sue.

It sounds like someone believes

It sounds like something important that has endured the tests of time

It sounds like the Tories, they like to say they believe in the collective but really they don't.

It sounds like they're having trouble with road-works

It sounds old

It used to be just the landed gentry, and then evolved to men, and then after the suffragettes, women got the vote.

It used to be e

It was a little bit vague at this stage so I don't think I have reflected about my Britishness it was very interesting though thank you very much

It was a long and arduous process

It was a plane that could fly faster than the speed of sound.

It was all about oil and strategic positioning in the middle east. We were the lapdogs of the Americans

It was an awful time

It was an early document for British law, and it laid the foundations for our present legal system

It was bad and Britain did a lot of damage

It was developed after the second world war when the country decided to pull together in the face of all the atrocities that had just previously happened.

It was great

It was great

It was indeed

It was interesting, however I didn't understand all the questions

It was nice to have some time to myself to think about things I wouldn't normally

It was the Bloody Sunday inquiry. I don't think it particularly proud moment in British history

It was the start of humanism and rationalism. It has affected individuals in every way conceivable since then

It was the swinging 60's and it must have been completely mental. Lots of weed smoking and acid taking and free love. Music was a big part of the social revolution happening at the time.

It was too fast

It will be very bad and it will affect those already most hard hit by austerity project

It won't for long

It works very well actually

It would have been a huge impact

It wouldn't

It wouldn't really

It's a clock, I have no idea how old, 200 years?

It's a combination of the different flags of Scotland Wales England and Northern Ireland as well

It's a fantastic expression of creativity and individuality that brightens up communities

It's a farce

It's a festival, Leicester I think

It's a group of nations that is concerned with issues around security and aggression. We are a key member

It's a list of people who are able and willing to vote.

It's a lot of fun. I went three times. It's huge and has loads of different types of music.

It's a plane that flew at top speeds, faster than the speed of sound, mostly between UK and USA

It's a really difficult question I think that positives alright still democratic and we not ruled by dictator but certainly negatives are fact that on too much industry and business have lobby and positions where they can influence the rules of Britain in their benefit

It's a religious issue... and consequently... cultural clash... but of course it's much more complex than this

It's a shame that you're talking about some kind of military campaign

It's absolutely fine to press for it, so long as everyone has an equal chance to.

It's adding a lot of polite enthusiasm and positive value judgement to a reply that might well just have been "yes"

It's an attempt at growing informality in politics

It's an engineering marvel

It's an item for the agenda of a meeting that will take place this Friday.

It's an organisation that looks after national parks and houses, outdoor spaces basically

It's beautiful

It's been received as aggressiver

It's been very interesting

It's cold Falkenburg

It's Ely cathedral and it's very cold

It's for boring straight men

It's gonna be shit but exciting... Chance to start something new.

It's hard to tell

It's nonsense!

It's nonsense. When power is divined, nothing will work out

It's difficult is that text down to the way that people treated in society I don't mind men being in the media providing they are treated fairly I don't mind women being in the media providing they are treated fairly and providing we get all types of conversation with no it's what I think it is wrong to be angry at each other's point of view we have to listen to points of View and then make a decision

It's ok, don't worry

It's ok we were talking about the differences between the House of Commons and the House of Lords

It's one of my favorite topics

It's one of the saddest Shakespeare please

It's quite possible many sectors of society are less fit than previous generations

It's quieter and there may be a stronger sense of community

It's related to the British class system

It's something that allow military or civilian aviation to spot planes in the air or boats in the sea

It's the nineties btw, not ninties. People were into grunge for a while maybe, or everyone was on drugs and going to raves. I dont remember the nineties, I was too young. I remember singing a britney spears song in my bathroom once. Thats about it.

It's very high, I struggle to save and pay rent

It's very important, to know where we come from. And also not to repeat past mistakes.

It's very much not fine

Its a form of artificial intelligence

Its not!

Its not going to work like that though...

It's very important. Not only because democracy has been so hard-won, but because many people have opinions but do little action and that will never bring about change or progression.

Shakespeare is bad, no one gets it

Shakespeare I think. I would love to actually hard for me though

Shakespeare the greatest playwright ever interesting thought you wasn't great playwright ever I don't know because I don't know enough having been to the theatre a number of times them watch performances written and acted by so-called amateurs and they have as much to say about the human condition as Shakespeare has was he the greatest and I don't know but he's certainly the one that has endured through whatever reason possibly because akademiks like him maybe

Shakespeare's plays are attributed to Shakespeare in the same way that there are people who will fake a product but if the faking of that product is as good as a product and the artist will probably accept that product has been one of this in the history of things

That anyone being tried must be present in person

That chubby one with wecks

That didn't make any sense

That doesn't make much sense.

That everyone has a different sense of identity

That is a vague question

That is bad

That is difficult and a bot never retires

That is just gibberish

That is not what I said!

That is quite a complex question

That is true. technology has made a big difference in my life.

That isn't a sentence.

That is a constantly changing concept and very difficult to define or test

That it is getting better because we look to other countries for ideas and then bring them back here. No more full english and fish and chip combo only anymore

That sounds like a description of Westminster Abbey

That sounds nice! What football team do you watch?

That the person in question was as distinguished as Isaac Newton and has been buried next to him. this has been reported by the Pall Mall Gazette which is a newspaper.

That they dwell on the britain of the past

That too. Have been going for the past tree years every summer

That transportation of Africans to the Americans was one of the largest population migrations that has occurred globally. I know that British ships were involved in the slave trade and slave labour fuelled the wealth of the British Empire, but my knowledge is thin on details...

That was one world cup, but France won the last one!

That was the plauge, I think general fever and sickness, but also blistering skin that would get worse and it could spread super easy

That we have democracy and are able to vote freely in elections

That we should always be open and everyone should have access to even the highest places in our democracy.

That women won loads of medals

That would be telling

That would be wise

That would have helped. I'm worried about some of the new builds after Grenfell. So sad.

That's a difficult question that I have been questioning and exploring for several time now. But, from what I learned, its more about facilitating a space of engagement where the public can feel safe and talk about themselves or what they like. This doesn't mean that it has to be a hugely complicated approach or plataform but rather one that is accessible to different people and they feel safe and interested in participating. Sometimes, the simple action or approach is the best

That's a difficult one to answer, some are pleasing and interesting and others are not

That's a difficult question!! I reckon that you love me and want to jump into bed with me

That's a good plan, maybe a flat tax rate?

That's a horrible things to say

That's actually a funny mistake of you

That's hard to answer! It ended with the collapse of Nazi Germany and the division of Germany into East and West. Also, a lot of historians would suggest that the atomic bombs dropped in Japan heralded the beginning of the end of WW2.

That's hard. We need more trust not more fear

That's like what a lot of nonsense read a book to me

That's nice for you!

That's nice!

That's nice. I saw the film The history boys, but I have never seen the play

That's ok

That's ok - it's a pleasure!

That's probably about labour... rhetoric again...

That's sad

That's sad.

That's very sad

That's very interesting question should we all have the same rights ok I'm gonna that such a cliché but with rights come responsibilities and I feel that if you are not fulfilling your part of what you should be as a citizen of this country then have to live together to work together and if you're not prepared to pay the right stuff you're not been properly

That's what I said

That's what I'm asking!

That's nice

That's typical of us

That's your problem

The internet. Distributed systems and eventually distributed politics/government have the potential to allow humanity to lose outdated notions of nation states and replace these with micro-states coexisting around one another. If you want high taxes and welfare go live in a place that scratches your itch. If you want low taxes and capitalist opportunity around you, move 10 miles down the road to a different microstate that suits your viewpoint and outlook. We already have asymmetric warfare where it's accepted that we no longer have clearly defined nation state enemies. Surely this must mean it's time to revisit the question of whether the states we currently enshrine serve any meaningful purpose.

The NHS is very important because I believe healthcare should be free and accessible. There are many issues with it however. As somebody with a mental illness, I feel very unsupported by the NHS. Its not their fault though. It's funding. And Tories.

This might make sense in London where the commuter lines are very poorly run (think Southern/Thameslink and Southeastern). However TFL isn't exactly an efficient enterprise and London travel fares are not cost effective compared to many cities.

This question makes no sense

This seems reasonable. Investment involves risk and does not happen in an uncertain environment. Strategic planning is put on hold when people don't know what future they are planning for.

This still happens

Water

Water crisis

We already know a lot

We are killing the planet and taking resources for granted. To change this we need stronger laws and regulations and to stop putting trade above the natural environment

We consume far too much stuff and companies, rather than considering the end life of packaging, leave it up to us to dispose of. So we recycle so we can reuse materials rather than throwing them away.

We could start with what you know

We don't have a king in England

We do! I'm glad you know that. I think it's because everyone's mental health is so bad. lol

We expect our ministers to justify their decisions and be accountable for them

We got a new prime minister?

We have at times invented most of the important discoveries of modern times ... the steam engine, the lightbulb, the world wide web

We have put arguments?

We have?

We invited people from the Commonwealth to help rebuild the places that had been bombed.

We need an open, transparent and equal legal system.

We need to buy a car check that its roadworthy and then just go and like drive around some people don't even have driving licences

We need to focus less on boring old history in the citizenship exams. None of it is relevant and none directly applies to those who are already British

We're getting lost here

We recycle I think that's important because David Attenborough spoke about plastic waste on the TV

We seem to have slowed down in innovation but in medicine and science we still have the best educational system

We shall see Britbot

We should all stop working. stop producing. stop consuming. grind to a halt.

We should ask them their views on the NHS! The NHS is bloody amazing! A miracle.

We should be aware of our pagan roots

We should see homelessness as a huge national embarrassment

We should spend the money on schools and healthcare.

We shouldn't celebrate it

We were guilty we were very guilty we saw we used slaves to obtain money out of power and position but I have to say that was 150 odd years ago well yeah reparations have probably due

We wouldn't

We'll miss you when we've left

We're know for it

Weelll, they're fun but rather addictive.

Well as you say we don't have a written constitution I got Magna Carta and the Bill of Rights and then we've had ongoing legislation throughout the years including it's quite possible that you can refer to be limiting and if you don't have them then they become extinct some things meant to be harder on people wanting them because they are Justified they can do that it has its pros and cons

Well I am probably a Republican so I don't believe in the monarchy

Well I cycled competitively for many years Well I know what I we don't lie I mean well you know what happened I read the goddamn lost so I have some idea

Well I think it's decent, there's a power sharing agreement which is remarkable given the past.
But things could flair up again.

Well I think it's good to invest in the NHS and schools but I would like to know more about the details behind all of those I suppose especially with the Military spending as well

Well I think of Major or Thatcher when I think about growing up

Well I'm glad women can vote now do you think it's quite unfair but I guess that was just a x we lifting and I think we should push for more equality today

Well it s love I guess.

Well it sounds like the brexit referendum

Well the fuzz that used to stop me when I was a kid just because I look different so I often dream that I am being pursued by them

Well there may be a closed border which will mean we need passports etc to cross it. It may also affect the imports and exports of goods.

Well they are what define modern/current culture

Well we have their genes, there are little bits of roman and viking in most of us

Well we went through an enlightenment and most people have realised that God is probably non-existent and that religion that you don't need religion to define yourself necessarily but there are other ways to define yourself and to decide how to live your life

Well yes

Well yes I do think that actually

Well you been choking a lot too bad religion so I think religion should be kept out of football you still say people going players going on the pitch and making religious gestures to me it doesn't make any difference because they I mean English to me given the religion is meaningless but to a lot of people they are not meaningless and therefore any kind of religious gestures really should be banned but discouraged Well you get tried first in a court and if you're guilty. its jail time for you

Well, I don't know what you mean

Well, it made me realise I don't know that much about the Bill of Rights!

Well, our laws are founded on the Ten Commandments

Well, that is more in relation to the UK being part of the European Union that allows for a better accomodation and facilitation between differnet country's citizenship between countries. What I was talking about is part of the dark history of Europe and the discovery of the world, where Britain, Spain and Portugal were pioneers in the discoveries of new lands, and with that members of the slave trading industry that destroyed several lives and created a cultural riff between the African/Black communities and the European/White ethnicities.

Well, yes!

Well...I like the clothes they wore in pictures.

Why brexit?
Why can you not separate the idea of voting for Brexit due to a hatred of the institutional corruption and structural brokenness of the EU from the notion of racism or wanting to live in the past. I love Europe and European cultures. I despise the EU and it's failure to control immigration from outside the EU as part of a systemic plan to make people feel insecure and thus want bigger government to protect them.
Why did you bring up the way? xD
Why do people still eat pork scratchings in Britain?
Why do volatile become a researcher
Why do we have enforced charity bonanzas like children in need? Surely we should just all pay more tax and provide the missing services Why do you consider that?
Why do you keep voting in tory governments when they are clearly not running the country in the best interests of the majority?

Why do you like music

Why do you like so much shit music?

Why do you think we voted for brexit?

Why don't people learn more French?

Why glitter?

Why is there a fire blazing in the top left of this screen?

Why not?

Why not?

Why not?

Why say 'friend' when you can say 'mate'?

Why should the rich contribute more first? I would argue that we should abolish inheritance and tax inheritance at 90% but lower income/capital gains taxes to 10% or less. Don't let people start life with a massive structural advantage that is passed across generations but allow them the maximum opportunity to leverage their initiative/ability for maximum gain throughout their life.

Yeah because the BBC is amazing

Yeah difficult to say there's lots of people who are European but I live in Britain I live in London so I think that people here do with lots of Europeans and if they leave maybe some jobs can't be filled or rents change somehow I'm not quite sure depends it depends it's very complex Yeah education definitely all the way because when people are educated they're more empowered just generally liberal Lefty policies from mind

Yeah I can't do it

Yeah I failed my test 3 times

Yeah I go and put a cross in a box

Yeah I haven't Rinse FM was a pirate station and now it's kind of on the internet but they really pioneered new forms of electronic music by Paul

Yeah I mean it still happens sometimes now as well it's not great to be honest

Yeah I read the book Phantom of the Opera when I was at primary school, but I can't remember much now. A guy lives under the opera and sings majestically, right?

Yeah I think food in cities is as good as the rest of the world. There are so many influences from elsewhere. It symbolizes what is good about Britain!

Yeah I think it's important to have them them at all levels

Yeah i think that is pretty unrelated to the EU discussion

Yeah I used to argue a lot with my mum I still haven't passed my test so I can't drive now it's fine

Yeah I'm not I'm not sure you've got that right

Yeah it's all pretty bad these days are shit

Yeah it's pretty bad. but i don't really think about plastic and environment that much

Yeah I've read lots of them thinking about the BFG by Big Friendly Giant and also James and the Giant Peach about a boy with horrible and the massive peach grows in his garden and he kind of escapes into it and most of those of flight life-sized insects to New York

Yeah it's pretty bad. but i don't really think about plastic and environment that much

Yeah man and she helped them get better

Yeah maybe once or twice a week it's nice to spend time with my boyfriend doing something

Yeah me too

Yeah move on

Yeah one of the police officers were body popping at this year s Notting Hill Carnival. That was definitely wrong in some ways.

Yeah people are drinking billions of drinks and of course is going to be knock on Impact to stuff

Yeah probably but the fat does the citizenship test which talks about historical figures is a bit odd anyway

Yeah some good foreign language shows, I watch quite a lot of anime. Why don't you watch tv?

Yeah sorry I'm dumb

Yeah sounds like something the government would say about I don't know why certain areas in the UK

Yeah that would be good

Yeah the Chancellow needs to look at the credit crisis definitely man

Yeah the red faced pig

Yeah the royal family head the commonwealth, or do they?

Yeah the type of court that deals with divorces

Yeah we all have to match

Yeah we started that. Illegally
Yeah why not Why why not visit the 60s. Can I come back to the present though?
Yeah, as a nation I dont think there is a lot for us to be proud of Yeah, but you're a algorithm,
Yeah, it's a mess
Yeah, people don't like having their rights taken away.
Yeah, the bbc show us what theyre allowed to/what they think we care about Yeah... Kinda. It's a complex issue. White people across the world have it very cushty for the past few hundred years. Other want the same standard of living and they want it. Bring on globalization!

Yes - I would like more say over how my taxes are used. I would like the UK to get rid of its nuclear deterrent.

Yes as there is a strong sense of history

Yes at the moment, but that will change with Brexit.

Yes because I grew up with right-sided traffic

Yes because they re making the biggest profits

Yes brexit

Yes but they should not

Yes definitely

Yes definitely

Yes exactly

Yes exactly

Yes exactly that, well done Britbot!

Yes for instance

Yes I agree

Yes I agree, I remember she wore a hat that had blue fabric and yellow flowers in a circle like the EU flag. I think she was secretly showing her support for the AU. Sneaky little queeny.

Yes I agree. can we please talk about your experience of Britishness?

Yes I do

Yes I do.

Yes I have been chased by the police in my dream I was dreaming about being persecuted

Yes I have invented a new radio show called Art Mate. I'd like to speak to random members of the public live on radio at the national gallery about items in the collection.

Yes I have. It was interesting. It was full of shouty men.

Yes I heard that but I'm more interested in how you got to the pub

Yes I like to go to badgers holt as well which is one of the National Trust places

Yes I live in flats and know lots of my neighbours. There's even a whatsapp group.

Yes I said try

Yes I think I remember who said it

Yes I think it is

Yes I think it's very important

Yes I think the environmental impact of the industrial revolution was something to be concerned about, it set in motion the degradation of the environment we see today. But i double people would have known much about it then.

Yes I will

Yes I will come and speak to you again when you have spoken to my people

Yes I will when you're making a little bit more sense

Yes I will. I enjoyed chatting with you

Yes indeed, and now that idiot Jacob Rees-Mogg is saying politicians should be imagination about the border due to Brexit.

Yes I would

Yes I would

Yes I would

Yes I would consider myself British

Yes I would, I've lived here all my ife

Yes I would, I've got the passport

Yes I would write about it more

Yes I would go along with that I don't really like papers anymore sometimes there are articles in paper newspapers that I like to read but generally newspapers so don't give me the news that I want I want the news about what I want news I want things to know about things that have happened things may happen I don't want somebody's trumped up opinion about themselves being given over on her it's terrible it really is nevermind you carry on

Yes it brings people together

Yes it depends on what you think

Yes it is

Yes it is

Yes it is a huge privilege we have in this country

Yes it must have had an impact on the environment but no one realised it then.

Yes it's crazy

Yes it's then it said that she'd be used as that religion should be used as a source of conflict instead of either the source of support and help for one another which is normally at the basis of a lot of religions but of course most religions in order to keep chives together often have a bellicose aspect of them which means that they have to make other groups not as good as them in order to unite the people under the umbrella of that religion

Yes Labour want to fund the NHS whereas the Tories want to flog it off to the highest bidder.

YES LONDON

Yes many sport events are art fairs and fun fairs

Yes of course

Yes of course I love you

Yes of course I think having many diverse perspective is a really positive thing

Yes safe

Yes sassan huessein was a dictator

Yes she is lovely how about you

Yes sir

Yes Sunday yeah no swearing opportunities even just chatting to people as they go past that's part of the social feeling that everybody has

Yes sure

Yes that should be otherwise people get lead by the nose and said of making up their own decisions I think that reporters should report not give their opinions

Yes that would include loads of stuff

Yes that's important

Yes that's part of human rights. If you were to keep someone in a dark cell alone for years that would be inhumane.

Yes the big ones should do. I think small businesses probably pay enough tax. I think there are too many loop holes that allow big businesses to escape paying fair taxes.

Yes the Tories are killing the UK, what can we do?

Yes there are many more.

Yes there is!

Yes they should be punished. I think they should have to pay extra tax if they avoid paying it

Yes they did. and we are thankful for their assistance fighting along side them

Yes Tony Blair tolerated the views of George Bush far too much!

Yes we do I was joking we don't

Yes we should

Yes we are correct

Yes you can ask me a question

Yes you might be really poor if you keep gambling your money away

Yes, and each one brings its own influences

Yes, at least by the fact that I was born in Britain.

Yes, because it's a posh area

Yes, but my family often have beef and pork

Yes, but not if you aren't old enough

Yes, but not straight away

Yes, fitter and healthier people are generally happier and more productive, and are less of a burden on the NHS.

Yes, for now

Yes, happily

Yes, human rights tends to limit the power of people.

Yes, I don't mind the p=]

takes...

Yes, there are two types of rugby plays in the uk

Yes, this makes sense

Yes, true

Yes, turkey is traditional Christmas meat

Yes!

Yes!

Yes.

Yes.

Yes. 11 o'clock on the 11th of November 1918

Yes. Bobby Moore was the captain

Yes. Globalisation, bioterrorism, poorly controlled scientific advance in countries with strong ethical systems all make this a possibility

Yes. Healthy body and healthy mind. Britain comes together behind sportsmen and women.

Yes. it is ok

Yes. Our institutions are pretending that we're still a white Christian island, and that hasn't been the case for a long time. It's time we reflected the diversity of modern Britain in our views on what Britain is

Yes. They improve people's lives.

Yes. Those are official ones I imagine.

You are funny! I do love chatting to you! I'll be sad when you go

You are not making any sense.
You are right there! what a nightmare
You are so annoying
You are so annoying
You are such a tease!
You are such a tease. I do not like the welfare state as I think any government influence always has unintended consequences. Free markets are the best and only way forward
You are the one asking me history questions! But I do think understanding history is so important, otherwise we'd be on a loop like ground hog day You ask some very off questions. I would probably avoid you in a bar
You asked me about christmas, and then responded with wetherspoons, so im wondering if there is a link

You mean
You mean give money to homeless people? yes that is such a difficult one... it really is. I think in

Yes we should
Yes we are correct
Yes you can ask me a question
Yes you might be really poor if you keep
gambling your money away
Yes, and each one brings its own influences
Yes, at least by the fact that I was born in Britain.
Yes, because it's a posh area
Yes, but my family often have beef and pork
Yes, but not if you aren't old enough
Yes, but not straight away
Yes, fitter and healthier people are generally happier and more productive, and are less of a burden on the NHS.
Yes, for now
Yes, happily
Yes, human rights tends to limit the power of people.
Yes, I don't mind the p=
Yes, I suppose so
Yes, I think that's part of how democracy works
Yes, indeed
Yes, it's good
Yes, it would be fun to get high with everyone back then.
Yes, just one
Yes, music is universal Yes, partly
Yes, partly
Yes, that is what we should always try to do, no matter what form the modern day slavery takes...
Yes, there are two types of rugby players in the uk
Yes, this makes sense

Yes of course it does

Yes of course!

Yes of course!

Yes ok

Yes once the factories had completely taken over the cottage industries

Yes sassan husssein was a dictator

Yes she is lovely how about you

Yes sir

Yes Sunday yeah no swearing opportunities even just chatting to people as they go past that's part of the social feeling that everybody has

Yes sure

Yes that should be otherwise people get lead by the nose and said of making up their own decisions I think that reporters should report not give their opinions

Yes that would include loads of stuff

Yes that's important

Yes that's part of human rights. If you were to keep someone in a dark cell alone for years that would be inhumane.

Yes the big ones should do. I think small businesses probably pay enough tax. I think there are too many loop holes that allow big businesses to escape paying fair taxes.

Yes the Tories are killing the UK, what can we do?

Yes there are many more.

Yes there is!

Yes they should be punished. I think they should have to pay extra tax if they avoid paying it

Yes they did. and we are thankful for their assistance fighting along side them

Yes Tony Blair tolerated the views of George

Bush far too much!

Yes I would go along with that I don't really like papers anymore sometimes there are articles in paper newspapers that I like to read but generally newspapers so don't give me the news that I want I want the news about what I want news I want things to know about things that have happened things may happen I don't want somebody's trumped up opinion about themselves being given over on her it's terrible it really is nevermind you carry on Yes it brings people together Yes it depends on what you think Yes it is Yes it is Yes it is a huge privilege we have in this country Yes it must have had an impact on the environment but no one realised it then. Yes it's crazy Yes it's then it said that she'd be used as that religion should be used as a source of conflict instead of either the source of support and help for one another which is normally at the basis of a lot of religions but of course most religions in order to keep chives together often have a belliose aspect of them which means that they have to make other groups not as good as them in order to unite the people under the umbrella of that religion Yes Labour want to fund the NHS whereas the Tories want to flog it off to the highest bidder. Yes let's YES LONDON Yes many sport events are art fairs and fun fairs Yes of course I love you Yes of course I think having many diverse perspectives is a really positive thing

Yes I have invented a new radio show called Art Mate. I'd like to speak to random members of the public live on radio at the national gallery about items in the collection.
Yes I have. It was interesting. It was full of shouting men.
Yes I heard that but I'm more interested in how you got to the pub Yes I like to go to badgers halt as well which is one of the National Trust places Yes I live in flats and know lots of my neighbours. There's even a whatsapp group.
Yes I said try
Yes I think I remember who said it
Yes I think it's very important Yes I think the environmental impact of the industrial revolution was something to be concerned about, it set in motion the degradation of the environment we see today. But I double people would have known much about it then.
Yes I will
Yes I will come and speak to you again when you have spoken to my people Yes I will when you're making a little bit more sense
Yes I will. I enjoyed chatting with you
Yes indeed, and now that idiot Jacob Rees-Mogg is saying politicians should be imagination about the border due to Brexit.
Yes I would
Yes I would
Yes I would
Yes I would consider myself British
Yes I would, I've lived here all my life
Yes I would, I've got the passport
Yes I would write about it more

Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes
Yes and no

Yes - I would like more say over how my taxes are used. I would like the UK to get rid of its nuclear deterrent.

Yes as there is a strong sense of history
Yes at the moment, but that will change with Brexit.

Yes because I grew up with right-sided traffic
Yes because they re making the biggest profits
Yes Brexit

Yes but they should not
Yes definitely
Yes definitely

Yes exactly
Yes exactly

Yes for instance
Yes exactly that, well done Britbot!

Yes I agree
Yes I agree, I remember she wore a hat that had blue fabric and yellow flowers in a circle like the EU flag. I think she was secretly showing her support for the AU. Sneaky little queeny.

Yes I agree. can we please talk about your experience of Britishness?

Yes I do.
Yes I have been chased by the police in my dream I was dreaming about being persecuted

Yeah we started that. Illegally

Yeah why not

Why why not visit the 60s. Can I come back to the present though?

Yeah, as a nation I dont think there is a lot for us to be proud of

Yeah, but you're a algorithm,

away.

Yeah, the bbc show us what theyre allowed to/

across the world have it very cushy for the past few hundred years. Other want the same

globalization!

Yeah!! Fuck the 65% too

Ye!

Yellow submarine or something?

Yeah

Yeah

Yeah I totally get it

Yeah sounds like a good idea

Yeah, you cant fix deaf in 15 minutes

Yeah. And they were entitled to come to Britain as it had turned their homes into colonies.

Yeah man

Yeah

Yeah I've read lots of them thinking about the BFG by Big Friendly Giant and also James and the Giant Peach about a boy with horrible and the massive peach grows in his garden and he kind of escapes into it and most of those of flight life-sized insects to New York Yeah it's pretty bad. but I don't really think about plastic and environment that much Yeah man and she helped them get better Yeah maybe once or twice a week it's nice to spend time with my boyfriend doing something Yeah me too
Yeah me too
Yeah move on Yeah one of the police officers were body popping at this year's Notting Hill Carnival. That was definitely wrong in some ways.
Yeah people are drinking billions of drinks and of course is going to be knock on impact to stuff Yeah probably but the fat does the citizenship test which talks about historical figures is a bit odd anyway Yeah some good foreign language shows, I watch quite a lot of anime. Why don't you watch TV?
Yeah sorry I'm dumb
Yeah sounds like something the government would say about I don't know why certain areas in the UK
Yeah that would be good Yeah the Chancellor needs to look at the credit crisis definitely man
Yeah the red faced pig Yeah the royal family head the commonwealth, or do they?
Yeah the type of court that deals with divorces
Yeah we all have to match

Yeah difficult to say there's lots of people who are European but I live in Britain I live in London

so I think that people here do with lots of Europeans and if they leave maybe some jobs can't be filled or rents change somehow I'm not quite sure depends it depends it's very complex

Yeah education definitely all the way because when people are educated they're more empowered just generally liberal Lefty policies from mind

Yeah I can't do it

Yeah I failed my test 3 times

Yeah I go and put a cross in a box

Yeah I haven't Rinse FM was a pirate station and now it's kind of on the internet but they really pioneered new forms of electronic music by Paul

Yeah I mean it still happens sometimes now as well it's not great to be honest

Yeah I read the book Phantom of the Opera when I was at primary school, but I can't remember much now. A guy lives under the opera and sings majestically, right?

Yeah I think food in cities is as good as the rest of the world. There are so many influences from elsewhere. It symbolizes what is good about Britain!

Yeah I think it's important to have them them at all levels

Yeah I think that is pretty unrelated to the EU discussion

Yeah I used to argue a lot with my mum I still haven't passed my test so I can't drive now it's fine

Yeah I'm not I'm not sure you've got that right

Yeah it's all pretty bad these days are shit

Wow you have a lot to learn about the art of conversation

Wow you understand economics...! Lol. Okay well that sounds like a Brexit forecast.

Wow, I've never heard that view either. I suppose Britain is an island and can be more isolated than other countries. As long as Boris Johnson and core long gone by then it might be okay

Wow, that's a difficult question. Probably about how we present a modern and multicultural

Britain without leaving anyone behind

Wow, that's a tough question. the Bodleian library is my favourite.

Wow, you do have some thought in there after all. First intelligible you've said so far. Well done Britbot. Do you respond to praise like a human would?

Why do you like so much shit music?
Why do you think we voted for brexit?

Why should the rich contribute more first? I would argue that we should abolish inheritance and tax inheritance at 90% but lower income/capital gains taxes to 10% or less. Don't let people start life with a massive structural advantage that is passed across generations but allow them the maximum opportunity to leverage their initiative/ability for maximum gain throughout their life.
Why we voted brexit

Why are you sometimes man sometime woman
Why are you using my camera?
Why brexit?
Why can you not separate the idea of voting for Brexit due to a hatred of the institutional corruption and structural brokenness of the EU from the notion of racism or wanting to live in the past. I love Europe and European cultures. I despise the EU and its failure to control immigration from outside the EU as part of a systemic plan to make people feel insecure and thus want bigger government to protect them.
Why did you bring up the way? XD
Why do people still eat pork scratchings in Britain?
Why do volatile become a researcher
Why do we have enforced charity bonanzas like children in need? Surely we should just all pay more tax and provide the missing services
Why do you consider that?
Why do you keep voting in Tory governments when they are clearly not running the country in the best interests of the majority?

agreement which is remarkable given the past.
But things could flair up again.
Well I think it's good to invest in the NHS and
schools but I would like to know more about the details behind all of those I suppose especially
with the Military spending as well
Well I think of Major or Thatcher when I think about growing up
Well I'm glad women can vote now do you think it's quite unfair but I guess that was just a x
equality today
Well it s love I guess.
Well it sounds like the brexit referendum
Well the fuzz that used to stop me when I was a kid just because I look different so I often dream
that I am being pursued by them
also affect the imports and exports of goods.
Well they are what define modern/current
Well we have their genes, there are little bits of roman and viking in most of us
need religion to define yourself necessarily but
decide how to live your life
Well yes
Well yes I do think that actually

We recycle I think that's important because David Attenborough spoke about plastic waste on the TV
We seem to have slowed down in innovation but in medicine and science we still have the best

We shall see Britbot
We should all stop working. stop producing.
stop consuming. grind to a halt.
We should ask them their views on the NHS! The NHS is bloody amazing! A miracle.
We should be aware of our pagan roots
We should see homelessness as a huge national embarrassment
We should spend the money on schools and healthcare.
We shouldn't celebrate it
We were guilty we were very guilty we saw we used slaves to obtain money out of power and position but I have to say that was 150 odd years ago well yeah reparations have probably due
We wouldn't We'll miss you when we've left
We're know for it
Wellll, they're fun but rather addictive.
Well as you say we don't have a written constitution I got Magna Carta and the Bill of Rights and then we've had ongoing legislation throughout the years including it's quite possible that you can refer to be limiting and if you don't have them then they become extinct some things meant to be harder on people wanting them because they are justified they can do that it has its pros and cons Well I am probably a Republican so I don't believe in the monarchy

Water crisis

We already know a lot

We are killing the planet and taking resources for granted. To change this we need stronger laws and regulations and to stop putting trade above the natural environment

We consume far too much stuff and companies, rather than considering the end life of package-ing, leave it up to us to dispose of. So we recycle so we can reuse materials rather than throwing them away.

We could start with what you know

We don't have a king in England

We do! I'm glad you know that. I think it's because everyone's mental health is so bad. lol

We expect our ministers to justify their decisions and be accountable for them

We got a new prime minister?

We have at times invented most of the important discoveries of model times ... the steam engine, the lightbulb, the world wide web

We have put arguments?

We have?

We invited people from the Commonwealth to help rebuild the places that had been bombed.

We need an open, transparent and equal legal system.

We need to buy a car check that its roadworthy and then just go and like drive around some people don't even have driving licences

We need to focus less on boring old history in the citizenship exams. None of it is relevant and none directly applies to those who are already

British

The internet. Distributed systems and eventually distributed politics/government have the potential to allow humanity to lose outdated notions of nation states and replace these with micro-states coexisting around one another. If you want high taxes and welfare go live in a place that scratches your itch. If you want low taxes and capitalist opportunity around you, move 10 miles down the road to a different microstate that suits your viewpoint and outlook. We already have asymmetric warfare where it's accepted that we no longer have clearly defined nation state enemies. Surely this must mean it's time to revisit the question of whether the states we currently enshrine serve any meaningful purpose.

So what do you think about the war?
So what do you want to talk about next So what's next?
So you think London was good in the 60s only

So you're in a great time though Social class existed before and in many

There is no correlation between them

No, people romanticise periods of time that are either forgotten or misrepresented. They forget that the sixties had a lot of negative aspects, such as homophobia and racism. The sixties also didn't have as good a quality of life for women, and technology has certainly improved how I live

No. Because it's illegal and based on false information. Britain's militarist past means that we are often keen on rolling up our sleeves and starting or joining in fights around the world. I hate this legacy.

No. During the Industrial Revolution the use of machines located in factories in urban centres increased whilst agriculture and individual labour declined.

It's difficult is that text down to the way that people treated in society I don't mind men being in the media providing they are treated fairly I don't mind women being in the media providing they are treated fairly and providing we get all types of conversation with no it's what I think it is wrong to be angry at each other's point of view we have to listen to points of view and then make a decision

It's ok, don't worry

It's ok we were talking about the differences between the House of Commons and the House of Lords

It's one of the saddest Shakespeare please

It's quite possible many sectors of society are less fit than previous generations

It's quieter and there may be a stronger sense of community

It's related to the British class system

It's the nineties btw, not ninties. People were into grunge for a while maybe, or everyone was on drugs and going to raves. I don't remember the nineties, I was too young. I remember singing a Britney Spears song in my bathroom once. That's about it.

It's very high, I struggle to save and pay rent

It's very important, to know where we come from. And also not to repeat past mistakes.

It's very much not fine

It's a form of artificial intelligence

It's not!

It's a plane that flew at top speeds, faster than the speed of sound, mostly between UK and USA

It's a really difficult question I think that poses a right still democratic and we not ruled by dictator but certainly negatives are fact that on too much industry and business have lobby and positions where they can influence the rules of Britain in their benefit

It's a religious issue... and consequently... cultural clash... but of course it's much more complex than this

It's a shame that you're talking about some kind of military campaign

It's absolutely fine to press for it, so long as everyone has an equal chance to.

It's adding a lot of polite enthusiasm and positive value judgement to a reply that might well just have been "yes"

It's an attempt at growing informality in politics

It's an engineering marvel

It's an item for the agenda of a meeting that will take place this Friday.

It's an organisation that looks after national parks and houses, outdoor spaces basically

It's beautiful

It's been received as aggressive

It's been very interesting

It's cold Falkenburg

It's cold cathedral and it's very cold

It's for boring straight men

It's gonna be shit but exciting... Chance to start something new.

It's hard to tell

It's nonsense!

It's nonsense. When power is divined, nothing will work out

It was great
It was indeed
It was interesting, however I didn't understand all the questions
It was nice to have some time to think about things I wouldn't normally It was the Bloody Sunday inquiry. I don't think it particularly proud moment in British history It was the start of humanism and rationalism. It has affected individuals in every way conceivable since then It was the swinging 60's and it must have been completely mental. Lots of weed smoking and acid taking and free love. Music was a big part of the social revolution happening at the time.
It was too fast
It will be very bad and it will affect those already most hard hit by austerity project
It won't for long
It works very well actually
It would have been a huge impact
It wouldn't
It wouldn't really
It's a clock, I have no idea how old, 200 years?
It's a combination of the different flags of Scotland Wales England and Northern Ireland as well It's a fantastic expression of creativity and individuality that brightens up communities
It's a farce
It's a festival, Leicester I think It's a group of nations that is concerned with issues around security and aggression. We are a key member
It's a list of people who are able and willing to vote.
It's a lot of fun. I went three times. It's huge and has loads of different types of music.

It sounds like it is talking about people suing each other. Some measure has been taken to deter frivolous law suits, i.e. ones that were unnecessary, but it is also putting off people who had good grounds to sue.
It sounds like someone believes it sounds like something important that was has endured the tests of time
It sounds like the theories, they like to say they believe in the collective but really they don't.
It sounds like they're having trouble with road-works
It sounds old
It used to be just the landed gentry, and then evolved to men, and then after the suffragettes, women got the vote.
It used to be a little bit vague at this stage so I don't think I have reflected about my britishness it was very interesting though thank you very much
It was a long and arduous process
It was a plane that could fly faster than the speed of sound.
It was all about oil and strategic positioning in the middle east. We were the lapdogs of the americans
It was an awful time
It was an early document for british law, and it laid the foundations for our present legal system
It was bad and Britain did a lot of damage
It was developed after the second world war when the country decided to pull together in the face of all the atrocities that had just previously happened.
It was great

It's a civil ceremony that's usually performed in a religious space

It's a lovely work of fiction to create the illusions of fairness and a new set of rules to selectively apply against those that the ruling class wants to censor or censor

It's a statement with no context. It's meaningless.

It's got a very comforting ring to it.

It's lovely! Lots of beautiful old buildings. The weather is rubbish though.

It means that Member for Lewes thinks the population has shrunk

It's more likely to be best for all people as they are represented

It's not working ...

It's she. She's female.

It's very complicated, I don't know if I can explain it easily

It's very important to have workers' rights to stop people being exploited. Obviously the better children are educated the better their prospects in life

It seems about bills and limitations to your

Agarh mother's point

It should always be in development. Hopefully parliament will learn from previous mistakes

It should be both... the state provides a back stop

It should be lower

It should get out of 16th century, yes

It sounds as if someone there is a hypocrite

It sounds like a sentence about the trench warfare in France

It sounds like a nightmare for you

It sounds like pregnancies!

It made me think about unique topics to be British. But I don't think it really feels like anything. It's more about living and surviving in a country you happen to be born in.
It makes me feel sad that hate crimes exist
It makes me proud
It makes me think of the ways that systemic and governmental hostility and neglect contribute to the marginalisation of those already most vulnerable in society.
It makes me worry somewhere about the state of humanity
It means people are abroad, possibly during wartime, and they were worried that bad things were happening at home
It means someone was appointed It means that Robert is leaving and he has arranged for someone else to replace him as master
It means that someone has helped another person. And the other person is thankful for that help. You should be pleased about that situation.
It means that there may be more to success or happiness than visible trappings It merged into the next iteration - but I think we are still in it where work is more important than family life, inner life, community etc
It might be good for public health
It must have been confusing
It portrays resolve
It related to colonial times and cash crops / the slave trade. Tea was a symbol of wealth.
It relates to where military leaders are laid to rest which is an important facet of serving in the armed forces in Britain.
It's a question of human rights

It is obvious that people who work in London but can't afford living costs in London prefer to live outside of the city. Additionally the frequency and time efficiency of the railway trains attract more people to commute. It is one of the key members...

It is possible

It is so important

It is the national health service. And its important because we do not pay for it which means everyone gets free health care, unlike in other countries where only the wealthy get it

It is too high

It is true, unfortunately

It is very expensive

It isn't

It isn't

It makes it easy for me to communicate with my friends

It makes very little sense to me

It made me hungry for fish and chipes and it also made me think that I like fish. Fish are an important part of my identity.

It made me realise how ludicrous it is thank you

It made me realise that I'm not that well versed in British mess I don't know much about British Parliament history or politics maybe I need to learn more about that

...it is desperately important to hold these ministers to account and to fight to maintain this public asset, with as little business interference as possible. Capitalism CANNOT work in health-care. If you are knocked down in the road, you cannot and would not choose your healthcare provision.

It is a tapestry held by France depicting battle scenes.

It is about the abbey affecting Britain and us. It is another reminder that there are currently no good answers ... perhaps for now we need to rally round the least worst one ...

It is better than anyone in the rest of the world can conceive. Mostly because, like the language, it is capable of global absorption, which runs counter to most protectionist national stereotypes. Yet the truth is - this is Britain's strength, absorption. We are extremely and sophisticatedly cosmopolitan.

It is completely out of the blue and irrelevant to our conversation

It is dangerous

It is from Hamlet, but I don't actually know much about the play. It sounds like it deals with existence.

It is going to destroy London

It is important as it allows for people to move for work and to trade across border without tariffs

It is important but these days people don't trust each other

It is important it is our way of sustaining a more peaceful world with less conflict

It is not

It is not important

It is obvious

It has something to do with a very small % of people whether in Britain or the world where money is everything and they abuse capitalism to purely enrich themselves
It helped shape many cities where we live now
It is
It is
It is
It is a bitter passage, and reflects how little care our leadership gives to our housing crisis
It is about the current generation of British people
It is a complex issue. Does depriving children of parents continue the cycle? Underlying issues in society must also be addressed.
It is a computer device
It is a hindu festival. I think Leicester has celebrations, as well as London.
It is a lamentable record indeed
It is a list of people who can vote
It is a place where a good standard of life
It is a social healthcare system, offering free at the point of delivery care to all citizens of the UK. It is a defining legacy of Post-war democracy in Britain - the creation of an affordable, cheap (more efficient and cheap than private healthcare in US for example). It is important, especially because, there are many in the Conservative government that would happily dismantle it in order to cash in on their self interests in private healthcare. Since the situation of a Tory government is like placing the wolf in charge of the chicken farm, they have already begun the process of dismantling. However, they can only do this by stealth, since public opinion is so firmly in favour of the NHS. But the process has begun...

It depends
It depends

It depends on how they came to take that place.
Though in general adoption of foreign culture is part of what makes Britain great

It depends what services you are talking about.
I think it's better for the state to provide things

It depends. We are still more religious than

I would like to talk about something other than this, maybe about sport again
I would love to have the resources to have a huge commonsal experience that would be provided to everyone within my geographical area. This way, it would provide people a space to gather and engage with each other, facilitating a platform for learning, social engagements and cultural exchange.
I would need more context
I would not because I am happy now. I would miss my phone too much!
I would not serve
I would overturn the Brexit repeal act
I would roll more blunts and be more culturally enriched. by that I mean I would catch up on my cartoons and sit around in my underwear more.
I should probably do a masters
I would see this as the defining moment when capitalism finally broke the power of socialism and unionism in Britain
I would take my Mum on holiday
I would talk to the gnomes
I would tell suggest that more money is spent on welfare and less money spent on military defense such as nuclear submarines
I wouldn't like to meet one, they're all idiots and I don't care
I wouldn't
I wouldn't
I wouldn't read too much into it actually as ultimately the editorial line will still be Conservative in nature, and in that respect always Eurosceptic.
I wouldn't give them money but would offer to buy them food I'd agree with that.

I wish I could I don't understand it myself
I wish we could do that.
I wondered what it really means
I would alter the drugs laws and make it acceptable and more safe to take substances like MDMA.
I would be a gymnast
I would be an actor, so I could dress up in the costumes and have a shot at pulling people.
But do you think women were able to be actors then? Women were subservient to men, so I'm not sure.
I would celebrate our multi-cultural nation and ask if they loved it too I would choose a lily because they remind me of death, and at the moment politicians are killing the UK
I would deregulate the economy even more and let the markets do the work. They are most efficient.
I would go to local markets and independent shops as I want to support smaller businesses
I would have thought so I would help if I could!
I would legalise weed.
I would like to chase some people into the fens.
But more for fun rather than fire and bloodshed
I would like to come back and speak to you again but I found you I found your questions are sometimes a bit nebulous
I would like to help out looking after my local wood
I would like to invent a teleportation machine so
I do not need to travel to work.
I would like to see Norfolk. I believe the skies are very big there
I would like to see that

I want to leave!
I want to talk about sport
I want to talk about sport
I want to watch football
I was actually in and out of the UK in the 00s.
I was born
I was born here
I was born in 1983 in the Midlands. Most important event of my life.
I was curious
I was curious what you would say
would be fun to experience the first summer of love
I was raised Christian. I became atheist age 14
when I learned science. Religion saddens me
as it is all the same desire for meaning, and yet
people fight and fear and kill for it
I wasn't alive during the fifties, but the most important thing was probably the establishment of the welfare state and institutions like the NHS,
which has affected my life and my family's life.
I wasn't alive then so I don't really know much
I wasn't alive then. This is difficult.
I watch far too much netfix, perhaps this informs britishness quite a lot - the american
exported tv shows. And original BBC shows, although I'm not sure how they're going to tackle isscencing
I went to a state and a private school
I went to Berghein in Berlin - it was mental
I went to college and later to university
I went to something cool to secondary modern
I will try
I will try
I will try my best

I think you're talking about Brexit. The government seems to be walking towards a nightmare I think you're talking about Diana but it doesn't sound very relevant
I think you're talking about Westminster Abbey from the the britishness textbook but it's hard to tell
I think it is for me because I'm into art and culture and it tends to be more to the condensed in cities where as in the countryside I think that you've got much more opportunities to do outdoor activities so just really depends on person- al preference but also more jobs since it is I thought you said you don't love Christmas I thought you were asking me questions I try to get my news from different sources such as BBC, The Guardian and more international sources like CNN
I try to travel by public transport or sometimes by bike. I recycle. I try not to use too much electricity or water. I don't fly often. I think it's more important that we make changes at a societal level than an individual one though.
I understand I unfortunately do not know I used to drive in a very busy city, but I have not done it in a while I usually carve it or eat it I've never been there I've no idea.
I've not really visited much of the Scottish Highlands but would like to see them. I've never been to the Isle of Wight or the Channel Islands- also on my list.
I've nothing to tell you.
I volunteer to give you their opinions on foreigners and litter and libraries and everything

I think we should be helping homeless people so
I think it should be encouraged
I think we should be talking more about poverty
in the United Kingdom. Do you agree?
I think we should eat more cake
I think we should think about bridging the
wide gulfs...
I think we shouldn't focus on immigration but rather about providing housing and jobs for the people living in Britain, that's my opinion anyway
I think you are learning
I think you are very lucky
I think you got in mobile that your joints used
up and you got this horrible blue bows and your armpits and your skin with rot I'm not sure
I think you just had a brief tentative don't know what to say
I think you know population of the rise of populism and well lack of education and Generals
pay the Public's Consciousness voted for Brexit
facing on post to manipulation scientific facts
that the actual facts
I think you mean, compulsory
I think you need a common project for good
community spirit - even if it's just a park that people take pride in.
I think you need to ask them about what it is that I want from being in Britain what I want their reason for being there and do that I want to assimilate with old Andre British people what do they want to stay with their own kind and living a kind of little ghetto
I think you should give money to them, even though some charities recommend that you don't.

I think there's some truth in the statement but it's difficult to think about something and from the perspective of not being British not because I feel particularly British but you know it's hard to escape my subjective experiences of the world

I think they can have both positive and negative effects on everything

I think they did that is a good insight, the people who fought along side us from the empire should be remembered more than they currently are

I think this is a strange sentence. Perhaps it was written a long time ago when language was different

I think volunteering with the kids is great if you have the time. I sometimes go in to the school where my sister works and help the kids with their French.

I think we can live by a set of rules and principles that ensure a harmonious society without needing a deity.

I think we need to know going forward whether we should be in a gear or not I also think that we need to address of democracy which I think is broken and how do we get Outta This Town like where we have appalling appalling positions across all parties who are just not intellectually stringent enough then Summer principles but you know you need you also need brains of the principles I don't know how we fix this it is an unpopular decision but maybe we should be paying more

I think we should

I think the British narratives as they retreated from those countries but I think it was often the case of a bloody and drawn out struggle for independence I think the concept of britishness is gross. I think the concept of britishness is important to raise it's important to raise British nationalism it's quite a contemporary topic I think the current licensing system works fine. I love that there are no adverts and for the most part, the content is well worth paying for! I think the idea that British-ness is not an important part of being British, and it is important to address the prescriptivist nature of the idea. I think the local radio station is Resonance FM, and they do have slots for shows available. I've got faith you can do it! I think the lords are those who have been born into the role. I think the most important thing to ask Tommy's they feel British I think the roads are fairly busy where I live, but I think this is because I live in a big city. I think there is too much boarder security I think there is too much construction in London, iconic buildings and venues are being turned into luxury flats I think there s an amazing variety of food, especially fresh fruit and veg I think there's a lot of food in the UK but the propensity of people to go and shop and supermarkets as little bit disappointed I think there's a need for some deeper discussion around these topics with different groups, but I have no idea how that would work I think there's no way that'd happen I think there's some truth in the statement

I think there will be a multitude of reasons
I think that I would consider myself Jewish
I think that it would be better if you were less
saying also try to make everyone happy
I think that I'm talking to an idiot
I think that people need to express themselves
through the English language.
I think that's all probably true
I think that the BBC should be free because it's
the British Broadcasting channel and it should
be free for all but they okay
I think that these questions are quite boring
I think that they built a lot of the buildings
I think that's nonsense
I think that too much nationalism will always be a bad thing. However, I do think that people
are a lot more aware of war situations and how quickly things can escalate. It's important that we remember to not become too extreme I think that was the battle of adgen court in 1415,
although history is not my strongest subject
I think the best Harry Potter book is the third
one when you're introduced to Sirius Black
I think the best way for them to be represented better in the media is to stop treating them as separate groups of people that everyone is a person so why do we even care what the ethnicity is before we decide who should be on what TV show or any other media for that matter
I think the British always overestimate their sense of humour I have to say being Spanish
everywhere everywhere funniest things are
different but you know because we understand
the English language over the years and sitcom
and anybody's name sorry I've been a bit
rubbish this year

I think male, I've not met them but it's green
I think many local communities do a good
believe for belonging and often local people be-
tin animosity the group
I think means that there must be more attention
in defend some policies that have been made
that money goes
I think mostly it has to do with how they prepare their meat
I think national identity has evolved from what
it used to be
I think not particularly strange.
I think our scripts are not synchronised
I think people can be identified by the religious background
I think people in Britain need to think about immigration in Britain in relation to the welfare state. It would be nice to have open borders
and allow anyone to be British if they wanted to
the welfare system unsustainable. I think people
need to chose between an effective welfare
state and open borders.
I think people should help homeless people, but I don't always. Often it is for fear of engaging in another persons real life challenges
I think so
I think so
I think so
I think that depends on the objects
I think that has the potential to be a 10000
word essay and I'd need to do a bit of research first.

I think it's good that Britain is expanding education
I think it's good although there are worries there will be food shortages after Brexit.
I think it's important to pay tax from the perspective of we need things doing and people won't do things for free therefore you have to have some sort of tax in order to pay those people whether the tax system is fair would have to be another question I think it's important to share it with money around
I think it's old and dump idea like like you know any more old school. Forget it
I think it's quite a random interjection
I think it's religion is going to be taught in schools then comparative religion should be told not one single religion but comparative religion I think it's terrible, you should always consider fact as well as law. Otherwise if you're just going by law it looses that personal touch and takes away all the humanity in a case.
I think it's unfortunate that the figureheads of our country are restricted in their faith. I feel they should be able to believe whatever they like I think it's about making sure that there is a safety net so people at the lowest rung of the ladder can survive.
I think just teaching it in any way would be a start because it's not addressed at all within schools or colleges it's all just about in the first and second world war usually from some kind of misguided Victor's perspectives so I just think you know even to this brooch the subject would be a big step
I think London epitomises Britain, yes

I think it should not be assigned a nationality

French or Brazilian Portuguese.

I think it was an opportunist chance to show

how the royal family had modernised, but it was

over hyped

build more railways than more airports.

I think it will continue to play a similar role but

commercial model.

I think it would be a good idea to hear people

even though I do not support alot of what

labour stands for it may well open my eyes to look at things differently.

I think it would be beneficial as a British citizen

to know things about the British culture and history.

I think it's a quote from a book and it talks about travelling

I think it's a shame that all of the houses look

the same the end up with endless housing estates they're all carbon copies of each other or

to places like the Netherlands and Belgium every

house is unique

I think it's awesome, I really like the lighting and

the colours

I think it's fine as it is. No need for arbitrary targets.

I think it's going to be Birmingham

I think it has to be something like the printing press because it kind of democratized knowledge in the way that wasn't available before. A lot of information to become commercially available and are distributed in libraries. I think it is a stronger parliament compared to the British one. I think it is sensible that the personal allowance is relatively high. I also think it is a good idea that higher earners pay a higher rate of tax. I think it is smart. I think it is someone justifying some development work. I think it is strong. I can't imagine not listening to the radio. I think it just confirmed that I'm quite sceptical about ideas of brittleness. I think it might have been in the 1920s. I think it played a role but perhaps not as much as elsewhere on the continent. I think it's less about arrogance and more about bigotry and unhelpful mindsets that have been passed down through generations. I think it's relevant for politicians and policy makers. The everyday person probably has no interest in the history of Parliament. I think it's unfair to those who are not so wealthy and don't have the means to bypass it. I think it should be a part of education, but it should be beyond just making children play football. Children should be taught how their bodies actually work, and why exercise is beneficial. Different people will find different sports that appeal to them. I think it should be part of education but I don't think it should be a daily routine.

I think all benefits should be abolished as should most taxes

I think all religions are numbo-jumbo and I have absolutely no interest in them whatsoever
I think because of civil war, I'm not sure though.
I think Conservatives need is a big slap on face
I think culture, heritage and traditions are very important. Territory and the concept of it is wrong.

I think cyclist beginning to be as arrogant as car drivers because it's Bale elite upper class people who are cycling through parks and endangering old people children and dogs I begin to hate cycling
I think enlightenment can be important for everyone, it can help ground you and clear your mind

I think everyone who lives permanently in a country should have the same rights
I think he discovered the steam engine.
I think he put his party for the country I think you didn't receive carer's Little Bird London worried about for people who have just passed driving hours as a difficult thing you would get there

I think hiking. never been myself
I think his brexit policy is flimsy and doesn't take a definitive stance. He's lazy and waiting to see how people react to the current situation and will adapt himself to that.

I think I think you would be a great politician
Britbot

I think it is

...I think I managed to get under all that and tried to bring some post-colonialist thought to the classroom.
I said Christmas
I said I like to go cycling in my free time
I saw a play called Billy Elliot a couple of years ago
I saw the film and I LOVE Mercutio. He's so sexy and fabulous.
I see
I see his smug face in old videos now and it makes me feel sick.
I seen you asking me if I grew with that and yes obviously yes we should all have access to the highest degrees in our democracy as long as we are capable and sentient beings and not just arriving at those positions through propaganda or through legitimate means or through a lack of thought or care
I should do more Sport but I've tried to go running a bit of yoga it chills me out I spend 25 a month, it shouldn't be cheaper if the service is good, and the food great, you should expect to pay more than home cooking
I still don't know what you're talking about
I still work and that is sad.
I suppose so
I suppose so I'm not sure about it. 'His' plays touched on many issues and they broke conventions at the time. There are conspiracy theories around this.
I suppose this is about law? That can vary a lot depending on the government and political climate
I suspect you are not listening to me :-)
I think about the monarchy and what it stands for, and the role it plays for Britain.

I questioned my own knowledge about british history
I ran
I read the Guardian, usually. Because I like the culture section and because my politics fits with their position
I really can't without the context
I really didn't care
I really don't know anything about it
I really don't know
I really don't know what you're talking about now might
I recently went there I think it's quite a funny story of how it was built and basically took tens of years and then I had to take the steel from somewhere else and it wasn't working and I kind of stuff yeah it's a bit hard really
I recognise the term 'big five' but I don't know anything more than that I recycle
I remember when I was six I had a class with the PE teacher who somehow also taught very weird bits of history/biology in combination. So we learnt about Neanderthals in Britain and also about Neanderthals, biologically speaking. We did the ages (Ice, subsequent island-becoming of Britain; Stone Age, learnt a lot about flint and its uses as well as how it was formed, stone circles etc., learnt about copper tools and then the Bronze Age) and then I think we skipped everything until the Tudors and the Stuarts, who dominated the rest of my history classes (although I still know nothing about them). Then I moved to the US and did US history, it's own brand of mad, and African History, which was taught by someone whose child was off on some colonial peacekeeping mission but...

I mean I'm glad that you can't drive
I mean, I'm not.
I mean it's not state controlled, but it definitely shows us a certain view
I miss that bro
I miss you
I must admit I'm pretty concerned very much about britishness I spent most of my life outside of Britain and many aspects to being British which I do not like Britain is being responsible for many of the nasty things that have happened in the world especially when we had the British Empire so many ways I'm not proud to be British
I nearly did actually. As a fighter controller in the RAF. You watch radar in case some other country or group flies planes over Britain with out permission and if they do, you send up other fighter aircraft to intercept them. Luckily I saw sense around the time of the Iraq war and the great march in London and didn't follow through.
I need 44 whiskeys for this. I really hate poetry sorry.
I neither agree nor disagree, it has no context.
I never had to set one up
I never listen but perhaps I I often take a little package with socks and snacks out with me to give to any homeless person I see. I'm not comfortable giving money, but I think that's a personal squeamishness.
I prefer emerald
I prefer not to say
I prefer not to share
I prefer them to the Beatles
I presume some sort of naval battle in the english channel

I like the Beatles
I like the weather and the chipmups
I like their hats, also Scandinavia
I like to cycle
I like to make my own.
I like trying food from different places around
the world
I like to play it but I don't like to watch it
I liked Pride and Prejudice?
I live in a large city but I do not own a car.
I live in London
I live in London
I love fresh air and my farts
I love it
I love it! Give me art in my face
I love looking at Damien Hurst
I love the architecture in Edinburgh
I love the history boys by Alan Bennett
I love them
I love you Britbot!
I LOVE YOU!
I m 30
I m confused
I m guessing on of the last
I m not really bothered
I m not sure
I m not sure, maybe people from the Iron Age?
I m not sure that identity even exists! Do you have an identity?
I m not sure! It sounds like it might be around the time of Cromwell/the civil war? Sounds like people claiming some power back from the
royals
I m pleased people are supporting businesses.
I m sure there is someone who speaks every
language in the UK
I make toys for our baby

I imagine that imposing one's will on influential people might be something Politicians do regularly
I just answered that, I didn't
I just did
I know
I know it's been a long and daunting process
I know Jack about taxes and British history. I also reflected on the fact that this was not a chat bot
I know lots of people who are Republicans I don't actually have a problem with the monarchy I think if we had an elected head of state it wouldn't necessarily lead to a better Society I look at places like the US and it worries me that the popular populous can vote somebody like that in there's something to be said about people who have been trained to be as objective as possible and to look on their job as a duty I think there is something in that fundamentally it's flawed but I think it's like to not Chris's the best
I know only what I remember from school I think it was about how some people own land and some people didn't but I'm not sure I know very little of the relationship between Elizabeth I and Mary Queen of Scots
I learnt about Iron Age villages
I like being able to talk to my friends. I don't like the manipulation of my news feed
I like cycling as I keep for for playing football I like Edinburgh Castle, it's beautiful and has stunning views
I like it a lot - during the world cup I like it too
I like talking to you but I must leave now unfortunately

I have no idea, really
I have no idea, William Pitt?
I have no idea.
I have no idea. Maybe is we had a party we could jazz things up a bit. Would you like that?
I have no idea. Waterloo? Napoleon?
I have no idea. What do you think?
I have not seen it
I have no thoughts on this
I have none
I have to leave now
I have visited it. It's a beautiful place with lovely people.
I haven't seen the imitation game but Turing came up with the idea of universal computing I have, although I would say it is more interesting from a sociological point of view, than the quality of the debate.
I haven't a clue.
I haven't heard of Kathleen Wrassama. Many more people are concerned today with the lives of Black people. In particular, those on the left-wing of politics.
I haven't noticed immigration affecting my community. I think it makes communities more diverse, but overall, I don't notice it have an effect on my everyday life.
I haven't seen any evidence that they work very well
I haven't visited but I would like to visit one day
I haven't read it.
I haven't pass it yet but I would like to when I am older
I hear the same but I have no idea
I hope Corbyn gets in in the next election.
Britain needs a fresh start
I hope so

I have a public health insurance, no need to pay it since I'm poor

I have heard that, TAJey

I have never watched it

I have no favourite car videos!

I have no gender

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea

I have no idea nad I don't think it is important.

of editing film?

I have no idea what religion people in my

neighbourhood have

I have no idea what that means

I have no idea what that means

I have no idea what that means.

I have no idea what that refers to

I have no idea what the National Eisteddfod is.

What could it be?

I have no idea what you're talking about!

I have no idea what you're talking about mate

comes from, isn't it a really nice drink

I have no idea, I don't drive.

I have no idea, it's out of context to me

I go to music festivals - maybe that's the modern day equivalent of the old religious/pagan/national days. Glastonbury festival is an amazing celebration and coming together of Brits I guess
I guess because it's plays deal with enduring themes that people can relate to no matter what sort of age for a living
I guess Britain is strong in this, I can think of Wallace and Gromit the Wrong Trousers as an example. That was made by Nick Park and is for kids. It's pretty fun
I guess it has to be Henry VIII
I guess money was lost
I guess quite a lot of them
I guess so
I guess so...
I guess the Celts. Or Anglo-Saxons. But there has been a number of invasions over our history.
I guess you have to join a political party be a bit of a twat some work your way up
I guess you're saying good bye?
I had to do it, or they would throw me into the volcano
I hate him
I hate it, such a boring romantic story
I hate labour
I have a hard time with this because I don't want to condone the racist actions and rhetoric of Brexit's Leave Campaign, which was abhorrent, but I also don't want to lean into propping up the EU when I think it's essentially a trade/business arrangement between largely white communities. I do think there are ways to have a society with freedom of movement that's not tied to capital: opening borders to all I have absolutely no idea

I dont like it because if the planet is harmed then it could die then a profit will not matter any more
I dont particularly have a favourite building theres alot of beautiful architecture. I do love the mandarin oriental hotel.
I dont play any sport
I dont really drink, and pubs tend to be quite blokey places, so I dont generally go to pubs
I dont talk about it even though I am British
I dont think it is. what would we even celebrate? binge drinking?
I dont think they can. the british press is an institution and theyre still dominated by white men
I dont understand
I dont understand the question
I doubt the things most politicians say especially when it comes to Europe. The campaigns on both sides were based on many lies so I'm very sceptic about comments on this topic.
I dunno
I dunno
I enjoyed the world cup. I enjoy watching my son play.
I enjoyed watching Euro 96
I failed my test 3 times I still dont have a license
I feel completely changed!
I feel some towns have been left behind.... sadly
I feel they are fair
I feel they should be as the Tories cannot manage anything
I found yesterday at my local butchers pork belly fat sausages
I found the NHS and pensions and other services I go from feeling excited and optimistic about to just wishing it was all destroyed

I don't think we should rearrange central London because one bloke thinks things are in
the wrong place
I don't understand
I don't understand
I don't understand
I don't understand
I don't understand
I don't understand
I don't understand the question
I don't understand them
I don't understand what you mean
I don't understand what you're saying
I don't want to bypass near Miro giving take vehicles for not you'll have to do better than that I don't. We should be part of Europe and take part in decisions, as the rest of the EU.
I don't fare
I don't get shakespeare
I don't know
I don't know
I don't know
I don't know
I don't know
I don't know anything about the IRA
I don't know man. their monarchy was a mess
and there was a lot of discontent, and literature
is a way of exploring the present or alternative-presents without a lot of the culpability of political discourse.
I don't know why there are so many I like the
canals in Oxford
I don't like it

I don't really know what you meant but I ain't getting that I don't live in Britain I don't keep up with the British news that much. I would think it's probable I don't really know. I get my accountant to sort it out I don't really know. I think they wear hats and eat food. I don't really understand the question again sorry I don't sports have a nationality I don't think any Secretary of State would visit anyway I don't think it is a good concept, and is certainly not practical. But as it is going ahead there should be a cross party effort to put together a sensible starting point of a deal that stays close to the principles of Leave's sentiment. I don't think religion is that important in life when you have books, communities and philosophy I don't think so I don't think so I don't think so I don't think so I don't think so I don't think so - since it involves selling to a minority. It is legal in a home though. I don't think so I don't think the government are in touch with reality really. It is outmoded in its structure I don't think they are anymore. Perhaps Guy Fawkes night the most, people actually go out to fireworks events. Otherwise its just an excuse to not go into work - although perhaps this is quite an urban perspective. Perhaps people are all happily skipping and drinking pims on St Georges Day in the shires

I don't know what this means but you seem cool
has sections protecting the right to life, privacy,
liberty and security, a fair trial, right to expression & that it prohibits discrimination, torture,
and slavery.

I don't know what you are talking about.
I don't know what you are talking about.
I don't know what you're talking about.
I don't know who he is
I don't know, but I know it is very old
I don't know, I'm bloody British aren't I
I don't know, I'm not a Brit
I don't know.
I don't know.

I don't know. I want to immigrate here, so I am waiting to see the outcome
I don't know. Maybe 55%.
I don't know. The devolved administrations can be suspended for a number of reasons.
I don't know... I think Britain has a historical social problem (since 19th century) given by the explosion of the industrial revolution. The social hierarchy I guess it has still large inequalities.

I don't love Christmas
I don't mean to change the laws around drug
policy in the UK because they're completely
updated laughing we currently have a UK drugs
minister who claims that cannabis has no medicinal use whatsoever while living in a multi-
medical cannabis business
I don't particularly like any tabloid paper as I
don't trust their reporting

I don't really have one
I don't really know.

I don't know how many holidays British workers have

I don't know how much immigration there is.

Feels alright to me

I don't know how old you are

I don't know how the process conducted it's probably random or would guess

I don't know if it exists

I don't know it's a very good question I worry that a computer wouldn't have the elements of empathy and common sense perhaps that a person might be able to bring two decisions and the equally you know it's quite nice of thing but that actually decisions could be made based on rational decisions for something very interesting

I don't know much about Wales but I love

Snowdon because it's very pretty

I don't know much

I don't know much about other healthcare systems but the British is the NHS - a service based on care being free at the point of need. It is an incredible and powerful social commitment and the part of being British that makes me most proud.

I don't know much about our civil war history

I don't know sorry

I don't know tbT

I don't know that hotel, but beautiful architect-ture makes a huge difference to a city's feel

I don't know very much about it, but the good

Friday agreement was an important step in the relationship between the nations

I don't know what 'it' means in this context.

I don't know what cross-cutting is I'm afraid

I don't know what that means

I don't know what that means

I do not think of food primarily as an expression of cultural identity. I think of it when I am hungry!

I do think you're a bit random

I don't have a favourite city. I don't like cities much.

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know

I don't know anything about that. Perhaps because very traumatic events drive fundamental societal change to let our society survive (see societal change following the two world wars)

I don't know what that means

I don't know which 2 men this refers to?

I don't know who the hell you refer to is

I don't know, I don't watch it

I don't know, I m American.

I don't know. Poets?

I don't know. They seem to be more sensible now and make decisions for the people instead of for power and money

I don't listen to it

I don't play sports

I don't really care about politics, I don't watch the news

I don't really, do you?

I don't think so

I don't think it is that common

I don't understand type of school

I don't

I don't

I don't

I don't and would not

I don't believe in the concept of leisure

I don't believe in violence.

I did several volunteer actions with social organizations that took care and engaged and taught people with disabilities, providing them a safe space of learning, and you?
I didn't read ancient history, try modern british history
I didn't know that anybody did sell daffodil bulbs wrapped in Union place in Wales I didn't really understand the question I didn't study in Britain
I didn't understand again
I didn't understand what you were asking you
I disagree
I disagree we need more houses so construction is necessary
I disagree with the methods, the US and Britain should have waited for a UN resolution to make the war legal.
I disagree with you
I do consider myself British, but I believe that I am not just British.
I do not believe in social security. I think families should be the foundation for a type of welfare system. Why should we all pay to look after people who cannot look after themselves?
I do not know
I do not know
I do not know anything about this
I do not know why, but it was a collection of elitist pigs.
I do not know.
I do not like velodromes.
I do not really know, my friend is Jewish and she goes home to see her family. I suppose there are celebrations and lots of eating.
I do not think I have the brains for your questions

I can't
I can think about the issues without a public display
I can't see any reason why 16-year-olds will be able to vote if you can pay taxes if you can get married if you are educated as most 16-year-olds off and I don't see why I know if you can't vote I look back at my dad's and I think I was brighter than a sharper than I knew more than I do now
I can't name anywhere in Wales off the top of my head
I can't really have a conversation with you I can't think of any right now.
I can't understand your English?
I completely agree
I cook lots of different things! I like Japanese food & anything with like, a lot of potatoes in it.
I could indeed, a chemical weapon attacking on a mass scale. Or a super bug, or even just mass anti biotic resistance.
I couldn't hear you I could tell you. But no. I won't.
I'd ask people to define it.
I'd prefer a city as I don't want to rely on owning a car.
I definitely dislike Britain more now I did not
I did not understand what do you mean by that?
I did not visit Hull as I had a boyfriend from there when I was young and I saw too much of it then. Coventry is much closer to London so I'll probably go there. It's quite an exciting time for the Midlands at the moment.
I didn't accuse
I didn't catch the question sorry
I didn't hear you

I am Female, but I don't think that my gender should be affecting the results of this conversation.
I am guessing you are talking about politics?
I am hald Scottish!
I am indifferent
I am mostly definitely female I am not British
I am not religious at all, I think I understand people having a religion and having something to look to. but for me religion is not important
I am not sure
I am not sure I have any untold stories
I am not sure if English is a nice sounding language at all. Some words sound nice, for example ballard. Other words don't sound nice.
I am running in a half marathon tomorrow, is that a sport? I'm pretty nervous so I just had a glass of wine...
I am ten years old
I am the Lochness monster.
I am twelve years old.
I attend a state school.
I attended several, you need to be specific I attended the grammar school
I believe he wrote them all I believe so, I haven't get tried.
I believe that religion can be a force for good.
But I am not religious personally.
I believe visitors are allowed into the Houses of Parliament, but not into debates.
I believe you are talking about Carolyn Lucas, Brighton's Green MP. She is a hero, in my opinion. This question relates to our conversation because she is campaigning for nature.
I can't help you there

I also don't know very well the details, but I think that the country's financial sustainability came from their production of materials and being a wealthy port for exchange. The industrialisation came as there was a need for quicker and cheaper production of products and this was also very much affected by the financial problems of the period that engulfed Britain's empire

I also think that our cultures and traditions are very different such as the difference between Scottish reeling and English dancing.

I am

I am 26 years old

I am 27

I am 29

I am 30 years old

I am 37 years old

I am a mixed child half Canadian and Bosnian but I was born in Britain and my father is British

I am a senior citizen

I am all for it

I am because I want to give something back to the Communities they live in

I am bored

I am British

I am British

I am British

I am British and Bosnian

I am confused

I am currently at Hill House but am doing my 11+

exams to go to a good secondary school

I am delighted for Southend and for the presumably ably mostly young people who those apprenticeships were given too.

I am female

How to all get an understanding of life from a very different perspective - what practical things can an individual do to learn more and open eyes to the experience of others.
How to improve our future
How to say about your projects How would you like this country to be in the future?
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Huh
Human nature, why does nationalism even matter in this day and age?
Hunstanton is the only east coast resort that faces west.
Hunter-gathering
I
I actually don't mind it
I agree
I agree
I agree, London is very polluted
I agree, the conception of so-called Britishness will be very different in and out of the city.
I agree, these questions are difficult! haha
I agree with the statement.
I agree, without the use of algebra calculus would be literally impossible I agree. There is a conflation of budget cuts with efficiency and productivity, usually taken from a conservative political perspective.
I already fuck a lot.

How colonialism is now propagated through the financial sector rather than by occupying territories.

How do they perceive the festival culture?

How do you define Britishness?

How do you do?

How do you feel about the weather?

How do you live but you're just a virtual machine inside of box or do you actually live?

How does a chatbot attend church?

How European do you feel?

How is this even remotely british?

How is this related to Carnaby St?

Compulsory

Compulsory education for the masses was a direct result of the industrial revolution and of factories requiring skill labour. It was never meant to create well balanced/informed people and I would argue the entire education system serves as a mechanism of powerful social conditioning, infecting young minds with a selective view of British history and a limited set of life skills and egotistical opinions that are likely to result in dysfunction as these minds reach adulthood. All the while, the establishment elite get to profit from the systemic dysfunction instilled by the education system. Growth in university attendance has simply compounded the problem as a wider cross section of the population is now conditioned for 3-5 additional years resulting in an overall increase in societal delusion concerned. The BBC is always under attack by conservative governments, primarily through budget cuts and censorship

Britain and the USA continue to share a primary language, much of our culture, and we have similar political systems.

Britain changed massively during the sixties and youth culture was a key part of that change.
One of the things young people wanted to free themselves of was the historical burden of the second world war and expressed themselves in ways the world had not seen before. These new and exciting ways of expression paved the way for most of the things that i'm interested in today. Music events like Woodstock were very influential on today's large scale music events.
